See GOP Cautious On Funds

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Republican leaders in the Legislature apparently are going to present a very cautious financial program for consideration in 1967, and perhaps 1968 a well.

That assessment emerged Wednesday after GOP senator and assemblymen, meeting separately here, unanimously redesignated the Republican legislative leaders for the next two years.

Choose Brydges

The senators chose Earl W. Brydges of Niagara Falls for his second year as Senate majority leader.

Perry B. Duryea Jr. was chosen by GOP assemblymen for his second term as Assembly minority leader.

After the closed-door caucus, Brydges told newsmen that the state should be able to avoid any tax increases for the next two years.

Duryea did not go as far as Brydges in his remarks to reporters but held that a tax increase "probably" would not be necessary in 1967.

In that view, he joined the Legislature's ranking Democrat, Assembly Speaker Anthony Travia, who has said that he sees no need for a tax boost in 1967. He has not ventured a prediction for 1968.

Try to Hold Line

Republican Gov. Rockefeller has commented that he will do everything possible to keep taxes at present levels but has not said flatly there will be no increase.

At their separate meetings, the GOP lawmakers considered the party's 1967 legislative aims, which are expected to be revealed in the near future.

Brydges made it rather clear that the goals would not be too far-reaching from a financial standpoint.

"If we don't go to far with new programs, we should be able to avoid tax increases for two years," Brydges said. "We should not undertake too many really new things."

Legislators traditionally try to time tax increases for the year following an election rather than the year of an election.

Brydges noted that "if a tax increase were inevitable, this year or the next year, we'd have to think about immediate needs."

A fiscal problem that promises to put considerable pressure on efforts to hold a tax line is the mandated increase in state spending, especially in the field of education.

It has been estimated that state aid to education will cost an additional $140 million this year and educational groups are clamorning for an added $100 million on top of that.

Duryea said that if the state lottery, approved by the voters at the Nov. 8 election, could be

Call for 12 Legislative Subdivisions in Draft Of County Apport Plan

Under a Supreme Court Ruling Ulster County must present a reapportionment plan to the court for approval by Dec. 31. A proposed plan has been drawn up by the Board of Supervisors Special Committee on Reapportionment and will be submitted to the board for its approval on Monday evening when the Board of Supervisors meet in adjourned session.

The proposed reapportionment plan calls for a realignment of the county into 12 legislative districts with 33 representatives, the same number as the existing County Board of Supervisors.

City Divided

However instead of the City of Kingston having 13 supervisors it will divide up into four legislative districts, with the 13th Ward becoming a part of the new Second District which will include the Towns of Ulster, Kingston, Hurley, Marbletown.

The reapportionment plan has been drawn up by the special committee in order to comply with the mandated "one man one vote" plan.

Under the proposed plan instead of each ward and town having one supervisor, the city and county has been re-districted according to population and each legislative district will be represented on the county board by "'Legislators" according to population of the legislative district. The number of representatives varies from one in the 12 District (Woodstock) to five in the larger districts.

A map delineating the legislative districts has been prepared by the Special Reapportionment Committee and will be on file at the meeting Monday, according to Peter Savago, chairman of the special committee. Members of the special committee are Savago, New Paltz; Charles Relyea, Hurley; Peter Williams, Saugerties; Thaddeus Musialkiewicz, Ulster; Addison Jones, Second Ward; Douglas Dye, Town of Kingston; Roger Mabie, Eso-

Act to Legally Halt JFK Book

Will Relive Day of Sorrow, Shock If Necessary to Prevent Publication

By RELMAN MORIN
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy says she is prepared to relive her grief and shock after the assasination of her husband in order to legally block publication of a book about the tragedy.

The outlook for her is horrible, she said.

Describes Day

The book, which the Kennedy family had authorized, is "Death of a President," by William Manchester. It describes the assassination of President Kennedy in Dallas, Nov. 22, 1963, and the events in the days immediately aterward.

Mrs. Kennedy calls it "tasteless and distorted."

"As horrible as a trial will be," she says, "it now seems clear that my only redress is to ask the courts to enforce my rights."

Her attorneys said they are preparing papers seeking a temporary injunction to stop the book's publication and would file them in two or three days. Summonses already have been served on Harper & Row, book publisher, and Cowles Communications, Inc., publishers of Look magazine.

Serial Set for January

The magazine, which reportedly paid Manchester $650,000 for the serial rights to his book, scheduled publication of the first article for Jan. 10. Harper & Row plans to bring out the book next April.

The impending lawsuit, and a mention of "inaccurate and unfair references to other individuals" in a statement by Mrs. Kennedy about Manchester's book, may throw some light on long-standing reports of friction between the Kennedys and President Johnson. It assertedly began on the plane that brought Kennedy's body from Dallas to Washington after the assasination.

A friend of the Kennedy family said Manchester's book depicts Mrs. Kennedy as having been "upset becaue LBJ kept the plane on the ground too long in Dallas, waiting to be sworn in as president."

Note Conflict

Another version of this incident is that Mrs. Kennedy and Kenneth O'Donnell, special assistant to the assasinated President, boarded the plane and ordered the pilot to take off at

Slate Final Look Today at Proposed '67 County Budget

A meeting of the Budget Committee of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors was scheduled for today to take a final look at the proposed 1967 county budget before the tentative draft is completed and made ready for printing for distribution prior to the public hearing Monday at 7 p. m.

May Total $1,124,000

It was first believed the increase of funds to be raised by local taxation would be in the neighborhood of $500,000.

Later estimates place this figure at possibly over $1,124,000 due to additions which have been made to the figures and the discovery of discrepancies in the rough draft.

Among the items which were not specifically included in the first estimate is an estimated additional need of some $336,000 in

Straddle Hanoi Anew From Air

Three Raiders Downed; Reds Charge Over 100 Killed, Wounded by Craft

SAIGON, South Vietnam — Hanoi may have become victim of its own defenses against bombing raids, American military sources said tonight.

The Communists charge that American planes bombed the North Vietnamese capital Tuesday and Wednesday. Official U.S. spokesmen said the targets were rail and truck yards five and six miles from the city's center

American military men said the reported damage probably was the result of Communist anti-aircraft shells and missiles, shot at U.S. planes, falling back on the city. The defensive fire was intense.

"We have been very precise with our bombings and from all we can determine, we didn't do the damage," a top source said. "We don't know. We are looking into this thing very closely."

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. warplanes straddled Hanoi with bombs for the second straight day Wednesday, the U.S. Command announced, but intense ground fire and a missile- firing MIG shot three of the American raiders out of the skies.

Return to Same Targets

A State Department spokesman in Washington said the department had no evidence to confirm Communist reports that the American planes bombed nonmilitary targets and inflicted civilian casualties in Hanoi itself.

Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers returned to the same two targets they hit Tuesday to rain more explosives on a sprawling truck depot five miles south of Hanoi and a major railroad marshalling yard six miles northeast of the Communist capital. Pilots claimed heavy damage to both installations.

Silence Two Sites

Navy planes also attacked seven surface-to-air missile site in the Hanoi area and reported destroying a radar van at one six miles south-southwest of the city. Navy pilots alo reported silencing two antiaircraft gun sites 14 miles from Hanoi.

During the raids, more than a score of MIG21s and MIG17s were encountered and a MIG21, downed an Air Force F105 Thunderchief 50 miles southwest

Bell Takes Plea To Party Boss on At-Large Ballots

H. Clark Bell, district delegate to the Constitutional Convention from the 38th Senatorial District of Dutchess and Ulster Counties, announced today that he has followed up his request to Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo for a statewide investigation into reported Election Day irregularities with an appeal to Carl Spad, New York State Republican Chairman.

Hundreds of Complaints

Bell had earlier written Lomenzo that he had received hundreds of complaints from area citizens, reporting on what they considered irregularities and inequities in voting procedures used for balloting for Delegates-at-Large to the Constitutional Convention in Albany next spring.

Kingston attorney Bell, whose seat at the Convention is assured, is more than a little concerned that 114,000 blank votes resulted in Ulster County alone in connection with the Delegates-at-Large voting. He said that of all the thousands of stickers used on voting machines in this contest only 168 adhered to the slot designated in Ulster voting.

Bell was on his way to Albany today in response to reaction from a high political source, interested in his letter to Lomenzo. He said he planned to see and talk with various people in State governmental circles; would take with him 10 pages of evidence he has compiled of reported irregularities. He said complaints noted on this list included no delegate-at-large stickers or pencils to mark them were provided in voting machines; stickers were so badly glued they would not adhere to the roll in the machines; no written or oral in-

Centerville Is Voting Tonight

Voting gets underway at 6 o'clock tonight at the Centerville Fire Company on the controversial issue of whether the Fire District there should purchase one or two new fire trucks.

At stake in the voting, which will end when polls close at 10 o'clock, is a $30,000 bond issue proposed by the District's Board of Fire Commissioners for the proposed purchase of two new pumper trucks. In contrast, members of the Centerville Fire Company have urged defeat of the bond issue in the hope that only one truck, equipped with additional items not included on the two contemplated, will eventually be approved by commissioners.

Commissioners maintain two trucks, capable of carrying more gallons of water than one, are needed; will give taxpayers better coverage and protection at a cost of $41,850. Centerville firemen favor a truck that would carry 500 gallons of water less than the two combined, cost $27,500 and $30,000, and come equipped with a different engine, preconnected hose lines and protective clothing.

In view of the recent and rapid expansion of the Centerville Fire District, there is no

LBJ to Use Truce Plan As Peace Talks Opener

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is seeking in Christmas truce proposals a new opening for talks with the Communists on ending the war in Vietnam.

Johnson made known through a White House comment Wednesday night that he was ready to discuss an extended cease-fire in Vietnam, including a freeze on troop reinforcements "if the other side is responsive."

Says U. S. Ready

When press secretary Bill D. Moyers was asked whether that meant the United States was ready to talk over with the other side in the war the specific issues of an extended cease-fire and a "stand fast" by both sides he replied, "Yes."

Behind this new White House move lies a double purpose strategy, reflecting some guarded speculation among top officials here in recent weeks that holiday truce maneuvers might possibly open up some interesting possibilities for peace talks of much broader significance.

One major purpose behind the President's willingness to have discussions on the length and conditions of a cease-fire, therefore, is to find out whether the Communist side is willing to exchange views directly or indirectly on any subject and whether it would be willing to go beyond the immediate issues into consideration of peacemaking.

Would Place Blame

The second apparent purpose of the President's strategy is to make certain that the United States does not show signs of lagging in developing peace possibilities, however slender, and that if current effort to prolong the cease-fire fail, the Communists will have to take the blame before the world.

Opposition to an extended cease-fire was expressed

Con-Ed Offers Assurances on Site Restoration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consolidated Edison Co. has engaged "one of the nation's outstanding landscape architects" to ensure proper restoration of the site of its proposed $184 million hydroelectric power project at Cornwall, N.Y., a company spokesman says.

Doing All Possible

M. L. Waring, the utility firm's senior vice president, gave that answer Wednesday to a question from an attorney for the Scenic Hudson Conservation Conference, which is seeking to block the proposed construction.

Alfred Butzel asked Waring what assurance the company could give "that the project site areas disturbed will be put back into reputable condition?"

"We have engaged one of the nation's outstanding landscape architects and have done all possible to ensure that the site will be landscaped in a very good manner," Waring replied.

The company is seeking permission from the Federal Power Commission to build the hydroelectric facility on Storm King Mountain, overlooking the Hudson River. Conservation groups are fighting the proposal on the ground that the project will destroy natural beauty in the region.

The FPC called the hearings after a federal court had over ruled the commission's original approval of that project.

Blights Eliminated

Waring reported Wednesday that ConEd has already eliminated almost 30 manmade blights in the area of its proposed project.

"Old, unattractive and run down structures," have been demolished the utility official disclosed.

He was cross-examined by David Sive, attorney for the Scenic Hudson Conservation

Stresses Sales, Income Tax Changes for Rotary

New developments in the administration of the sales tax and some of the areas which continue to present problems for vendors were outlined by State Tax Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy before the Kingston Rotary Club Wednesday.

Discussing recent regulations of major importance and proposed amendments to the sales tax law, the commissioner said:

I'm sure you all are aware that last August we notified the 430,000 sales tax vendors in the State that they could file annual reporting forms instead of quarterly forms if they collected no more than $50 in sales taxes in a year.

Shortly thereafter, and based upon our experience with this change, the Tax Commission promulgated a regulation expanding that optional annual filing privilege to $250, if a vendor was reasonably sure he would collect no more than that amount in sales taxes during the year.

The most significant legislative proposal on our agenda right now is one that would relieve vendors having less than $500,000 in taxable sales each year of the need to account for the exact amount of tax collected on each separate transaction. Instead, these businesses would be permitted to compute and remit their taxes by applying the combined State and local tax rates to their total taxable sales.

We will also recommend that the approximately 5,000 businesses in the State which do more than $500,000 worth of taxable business a year and would not qualify for this relief be given an option to remit their tax on the basis of predetermined effective rates.

These changes would ease a burdensome filing and recordkeeping job for virtually all vendors in the State.

Contractors Tax

Most questions involving the sales tax raised by contractors stem from the nature of the work to be performed and the type of contract entered into—which in turn determines which Prosecutor Vincent P. Keuper declared in a ringing voice that Coppolino should be given the death penalty in the murder of retired Army Lt. Col. William E. Farber.

Ahavath Israel Moving To New Building Sunday

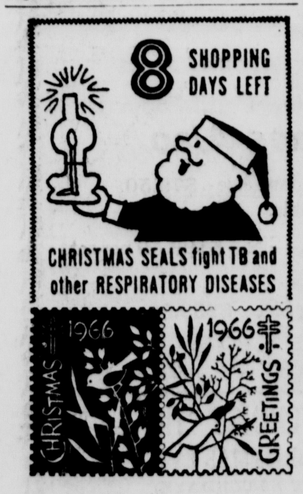

Congregation Ahavath Israel will move into its new structure on 100 Lucas Avenue Sunday morning.

After occupying the old Episcopal Church on 72 Wurts Street for over 40 years, having converted it into a synagogue, the congregation will now have its own edifice with such facilities as a sanctuary, a large auditorium, a social hall, a youth lounge, six classrooms, a chapel, a library, fully equipped kitchens, a study for the rabbi, and an office, and a decorative gift shop, besides many other necessities for all-around congregational activities.

The festivities of the day will begin at 10 a. m. with the deconsecration of the old building at 72 Wurts Street. During a religious service, the Holy Scrolls of the Law will be removed by the oldest members and founders of the congregation, who will proceed with them to cars to take them to the new building, at 100 Lucas Avenue.

At the new building consecration services will be held at the opening the doors to the sanctuary, and in the sanctuary where the Holy Scrolls will be placed in the new decorative ark. The officers, members of the building committee, members of the board of directors, and other

Artificial Trees Are Handy But Most Buy Real McCoy, Freeman Check Reveals

By R. DEAN WILSON
Freeman Staff Writer

Are Christmas trees on the way out? Is the "real thing" losing ground to aluminum and plastic look-alikes with regular-spaced branches and non-dropping needles? Being replaced by metallic caricature one can display for a few days then stuff in the attic until next year?

According to some, the answer is yes. Like a spokesman for Britts Department Store said, "People are just plain tired of buying a tree that falls all over the rug after a couple of days." He noted that his store has sold over 75 aluminum or plastic replicas so far this year — at $15 or more each.

The story's the same all over. Wallace's Department Store, Big Scot, Montgomery Wards, Sears & Roebuck, Fann's and Caldor's . . . all report sales are up — with the exception of Fann's Department Store. According to Manager Stanley Trataros. They aren't going well at all . . . It just shows the difference in customers, the older people are buying the fake trees but the younger ones want the real thing."

Joseph McGroarty, merchandise manager for Sears, reported differently: "Sales are going extremely well, especially these new 'Scotch Pines' (they're plastic-like) . . . People just feel safer using them. They're cleaner too." McGroarty said his store has sold 60 to 70 trees so far. "But the season hasn't really started yet . . . Trees are always the last Christmas item to move."

Regarding prices, McGroarty said they range from $10 to a whopping $90 ("Most people buy them on a time plan," McGroarty said) for a 10-foot camouflaged conifer. "We sold the last of those yesterday," he added.

At Wards, toy department manager Joseph Erickson declared "Everybody wants one of the Scotch Pines, either those or the Blue Spruce.

"The old aluminum trees that were all the rage a few years ago are way down, saleswise, but we've sold some 50 of these others so far this year . . . and that's half again as many as last year."

At Big Scot assistant manager Robert DuBois also enthused over the sales rate of the Scotch Pines as opposed to the older aluminum types — which for all the world resemble gleaming metal splinters glued on branches by some "pop" artist. He also agreed with the others that the 7-foot height was far and away the most popular.

But for the purist, concerned more with tradition than convenience: Fear not, the trees Joyce Kilmer wrote about are still very much in fashion, although at a higher price.

According to Oliver Peary, operating an Albany lot for his boss, Gordon Bailey, "We've Just opened and already we've sold a good many trees . . . The business is going strong and last year we sold more than ever before.

"Those aluminum things might hurt us a little, but very little. I think a bigger problem is that the market's flooded this year.

"Sure the price is up," Peary shrugged. "Everything's up. They

'Bulge' Unusual Documentary on Stage 67 Hour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's "Stage 67," which has had a zigzag course this season, moved in a new direction Wednesday night with an extraordinary documentary film. It told the story of the Battle of the Bulge, the German break through Allied lines in the winter of 1944-45 that ultimately turned into a German defeat.

This war documentary was unusual for two reasons. First, it told the story of "The Brave Rifles," in terms of the fighting men rather than by charts or by the recollections of generals. Secondly, it was produced, directed and written by Laurence E. Mascott, who fought and was wounded that winter and who felt deeply about American fighting men.

Centered on Key Battle

Mascott's film centered on what he called the climactic battle of World War II, the struggle that made famous place names like Bastogne, St. Vith and Malmedy. It was Hitler's desperate and almost successful gamble to reverse German fortunes by hurling 250,000 German troops against 100,000 Americans. That was merely the frame for the story of the exploits of some quiet heroes.

He illustrated the adventure of four men — "just a squad of guys" — who with a single gun held off a German tank column long enough for other soldiers to destroy a crucial bridge. They all died beside the gun.

He told of a young officer who got three guns into position at the head of an enemy column then organized troops into guerrilla bands to terrorize the rear. He died in a snowy forest.

He told of many others, naming names and home towns.

"The GI fought magnificently because he had to, and he would die for his country if he had to," Mascott wrote. He also wrote about the luxury of dry socks and warm feet and even looked with sympathy upon the face of the enemy.

The film was nominated for a 1966 Oscar.

Hopes Show Wanting

Bob Hope's comedy special on NBC Wednesday night demonstrated that while travel may be broadening, it takes more than a junket to a Mexican film festival to make an interesting TV program.

Rapid Robert, golf club in hand, wandered around Acapulso greeting stars and starlets, entertaining a discotheque crowd with tequila, taco and enchilada jokes and participating in an unfunny bullring sequence with Cantinflas.

He produces much better shows when he visits American servicemen abroad or stays home in the studio.

Student Draws Jeers, Cheers in Destroying Card

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Bruce D. Dancis, 18, of The Bronx, says he tore up his draft card and mailed the pieces to his draft board because selective service is "contrary" to democracy.

The Cornell University sophomore stood on the steps of Olin Hall an allegedly destroyed the card in front of about 200 other students Wednesday. There were some jeers and some cheers.

Dancis said he had written his board, Local Board 26 of The Bronx, that "with the draft system, the basic human right—the right to live — is taken away from a person."

He is majoring in industrial and labor relations.

Shortly after Dancis' action, the university's faculty members approved policies permitting the use of university buildings and facilities for the administration of selective service examinations.

The faculty members also approved the university's method of dealing directly with the student rather than the local draft board.

Some of Cornell's students have protested the policies.

Bishop Sheen Is To Be Installed In Rites Today

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Bishop Fulton J. Sheen awaits installation as Bishop of Rochester's Roman Catholic Diocese today following the presentation of his Papal appointment to diocesan officials Wednesday.

Installation ceremonies were scheduled to take place in Sacred Heart Cathedral here.

Bishop Sheen, who has been a national director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith since 1950, arrived Wednesday at the Rochester-Monroe County Airport and was greeted by 3,000 persons, including Bishop James E. Kearney.

Bishop Kearney, who is retiring as diocesan spiritual leader, embraced his successor and said that Rochester was the only place in the East not having snow or rain and where the sun was shining.

"The Lord knows Bishop Sheen wants to come here on a sunny day - God loves you," Bishop Kearney said to him.

Bishop Sheen said he came to Rochester alone - absolutely alone. "The reason was that I knew I would come among friends, and I am not disappointed," he added.

"Now that you have all seen me," he said to the crowd, "I am sure you are disappointed."

Bishop Sheen was presented a key to the city by Rochester Mayor Frank T. Lamb, who told the crowd that he had received a letter from the bishop prior to his arrival.

The mayor said it read, "A Lamb and a shepherd should not have a hard time getting along."

Monroe County Faces Mass of Resignations

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Monroe County faces a mass resignation of social workers Friday unless officials answer favorably the workers' request for a pay raise.

More than 100 members of the Monroe County Federation of Social Workers pledged Wednesday to resign Friday unless they obtain a favorable decision in their seven - year fight for a higher salary classification.

The welfare workers, now in the 13th salary bracket, asked that they be placed in the 15th bracket with county probation caseworkers. The 13th bracket provides for yearly salaries of $6,084 to $7,254, and the 15th bracket calls for $6,656 to $7,956 a year.

James Reed, federation president, said many workers who are not members of the group have signed pledges in support of the federation's stand. The federation represents 125 of the county's 208 social workers.

The pledges of resignation were submitted to Gordon A. Howe, county manager, who was in New York City and not available for comment.

Add One Day To Vacation for Monroe College

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Monroe County Community College students will receive an extra day of Christmas vacation as a result of their two days of picketing for a longer holiday recess.

President LeRoy V. Good said Wednesday, after meeting with would start Dec. 21. The original schedule called for the vacation to begin Dec. 22 and to end Jan. 3.

The leaders of two protesting groups, which had asked for an additional week of vacation, said they were satisfied.

Up to 300 students carried signs and chanted protests Monday and Wednesday to obtain the additional time. Some contended the extra days would mean more money earned on holiday jobs.

The signs carried by the marchers read: "MCC is anti-Christmas" and "Isn't there any time for Christmas here anymore?".

Nearly 2,400 students attend the college.

Couple Lacking in Good Manners

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last Sunday we attended church in a small college town where our daughter is a student. The young couple sitting directly in front of us did everything except kiss each other in fond embrance. Clearly, they were having a date, and it made no difference that they were in church, surrounded by serious-minded adults who had come to hear the church service. My husband could feel my seething just by looking at me, and my daughter implored me with her eyes not to say or do anything, so I chickened out and said I would write to you. What would you have done! CHICKEN

DEAR CHICKEN: I would have prayed to the Lord to send those ill-behaved young people some much needed manners, judgement, and self-control.

DEAR ABBY: At the end of your column it says, "Troubled? Write to Abby."

Well, I am just troubled enough to write to you about this problem, which irks me no end: When I invite friends to dinner some will say, "Don't go to any trouble."

Exactly, what do they mean by this? Do they wish me to serve them TV dinners in their original containers? Or do they expect me to take them to a restaurant? Those are the only two ways I can think of to entertain guests without "going to any trouble."

I am a good cook, and my friends know it, so they should realize that I most certainly shall go to considerable trouble in preparing a company meal. And the next person who tells me not to "go to any trouble" will not be invited again! TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: You appear to be all steamed up over a colloquial expression. Your guests were trying to tell you not to "knock yourself out," another expression I am sure you understand, but would not be expected to take literally.

DEAR ABBY: Please, please print this letter. It might make a few girls think twice before begging for a wedding ring.

I fell in love with Mark when I was 15. He was 17. I fought with my family because I wanted to quit school and get married. Mark wanted to go to college, but I talked him into taking a job in a parking lot so we could get married right away. We ran off and got married and broke our parents' hearts. I got pregnant real quick so our parents wouldn't have our marriage annulled.

Well, Mark wasn't really ready to settle down so when he'd spend an evening with his buddies, I'd get mad and jealous. Then we started fussing at each other. He couldn't stand my whining so he left me. Now we're getting a divorce because he says he missed out on his youth and it's my fault. I still love him, but his love for me has turned to hate.

Please, Abby, keep telling young girls to finish high school and let the guys grow up before they start nagging for marriage. I am 16 years old, pregnant, and in six months I'll be a divorcee. Sign this . . . MADE A MISTAKE

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Dec. 15, the 349th day of 1966. There are 16 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1791, the first 10 amendments to the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, were declared in force. Twelve amendments were passed by Congress, but two failed to be ratified.

On this date:

In 1916, French forces defeated the Germans at the Battle of Verdun during World War I.

In 1919, the National Prohibition Act was upheld unanimously by the Supreme Court.

In 1941, the Philippine National Assembly declared a total emergency in the Philippine Islands.

In 1944, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a pension bill for the benefit of widows of World War I veterans.

Ten years ago — The Army would not confirm nor deny a report that it had fired a rocket that attained twice the speed and height of any previous man-made mechanical object. An Army test missile reportedly had soared to an altitude of 650 miles and had traveled at speeds up to 15,000 miles an hour.

Five years ago—President and Mr. John F. Kennedy flew to San Juan, P.R., their first stop on a weekend trip to countries in Latin America.

One year ago — Two manned American space capsules—Geminis 6 and 7 orbited the earth, flying six to 10 feet apart in man's first space rendezvous.

Actor Received Education In School of Hard Knocks

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK AP) — Actor Steve McQueen is a high school dropout who can now ask and get $750,000 a picture and a big handful of the profits.

"I only made the ninth grade," said Steve, who subsequently got his higher education in the well-known school of hard knocks.

Recalls Early Years

McQueen loves to recall the wandering roustabout years of his youth.

During those years he worked as a tanker deckhand, a lumberman, a farmhand, a carnival barker, a ballpoint pen salesman, a television repairmen. He also a hitch in the U.S. Marines and became a top-ranked racing driver.

"Although I'm a city boy at heart, I like farm life," he said. "Working with animals gives you a great feeling of right and wrong. Farmers are dead-shot honest people.

"You can learn a lot of odd things on a farm, too. For exampe, I learned that pigs like to eat coal. Just why, I don't know. But they'll eat all the coal you carry to them."

It was while drifting from job to job in Greenwich Village that Steve became interested in acting.

Lived in Walkup

That was in 1950. Steve lived in a $19-a-month walkup apartment and earned — when he could find work — $1.15 an hour repairing television sets.

"There was a cook in a little restaurant who would trust me for up to $30 worth of veal cutlets and beer. He gave me a nickname — 'Desperado.'

"It wasn't too hard a life, but all I really miss from those Greenwich Village days is the obscurity I enjoyed then. Those are the good old days for me.

"What difference has success made in my life? well" — Steve chuckled drily — "somehow I seem to have more friends."

McQueen is built as trimly as a middleweight boxer. He believes in keeping himself, as well as his racing cars, perfectly tuned up.

Some Forget Body

"Self indulgence is a bad thing for a man," he observed. "Many people who win a little success have a tendency to forget the importance of their body. You can buy a new car but you can't buy yourself a new body if you wreck the one you have.

"I believe in exercise, eating good, and not juicing too much. I like a little Mexican beer or white wine, but I don't go in for the hard booze. Can't handle it."

Steve has a simple philosophy of life:

"If a man doesn't have obstacles, he begins to decay. A man ought to do the job he likes. If he doesn't, he's twisting his own head."

If Steve has any fears, poverty isn't one of them.

"If I ever blew what I've made, I figure I could do it all over again," he said. "But I don't waste money.

"They say I'm a little tight, and I suspect it's because I throw pennies around like they were manhole covers."

SAFE WINTER DRIVING

Despite the new federal safety regulations, authorities warn that traffic death totals will almost surely increase during the next few years before the new vehicle standards and highway safety programs can take effect. More cars, more young drivers and more miles of travel are some of the pressures that will inevitably force accidents and deaths upwards.

Because of these pressures, traffic authorities have pointed out that the individual will still be primarily responsible for his own well-being in traffic. Motorists must recognize this and rely on their own courtesy, caution and common sense to avoid tragic consequences.

Safe winter driving is largely a matter of individual responsibility. If everyone drives with unusual care between now and the year's end, many lives will be saved in this community.

So far this year on Ulster County highways, there have been 54 automobile fatalities.

If we all follow the following simple rules, we may reverse current accident trends and save lives that overwise would have been lost by the end of 1966:

Get the "feel" of the road by accelerating carefully to see if wheels spin; or brake gently to see if they skid. Reduce speed accordingly.

Increase your following distance. It takes three to ten times as far to stop on snow and ice as on dry pavement.

"Pump" your brakes to slow or stop—don't jam them on. An intermittent pumping action keeps the wheels rolling and helps maintain steering control.

Have good tires with good treads. Better yet, use snow tires which provide half again as much pulling power in snow as regular tires. Studded snow tires offer still more help on icy surfaces.

Always carry reinforced tire chains in the trunk of you car for use during severe snow and ice conditions. They provide four to five times as much traction on snow or ice as regular tires.

Keep your windshield and windows clear at all times. Replace streaking wiper blades gone dead from exposure to sun, wind and oily road film. Be sure your windshield washer solution contains adequate anti-freeze.

It looks like a gubernatorial runoff election in Georgia. Lester Maddox's backers may soon be chanting, "Give 'em the axe . . ."

KEEPING PEACE IN SPACE

President Johnson was quite right in declaring that multi-nation agreement to guarantee only peaceable activities in space is "the most important arms control development since the limited test ban treaty in 1963." The Senate can and ought to reinforce the agreement's importance by ratifying it promptly and strongly.

Such action would, because of our space leadership, give the treaty marked impetus and assure that most other nations would hasten to sign. Some may regard this as unimportant, since only two powers are now significantly involved in the so-called space race. The truth is that, as in the case of the nuclear test ban, a large number of signatories would give the agreement such a weight of approval that no power would lightly undertake to violate it.

This is a point that has aroused some concern. There are those who have maintained that a space treaty would be worthless, and that the United States should proceed with a military man-in-space program. A leading exponent of this view is Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, former head of the Air Force System Command, who said not long ago: "Despite U.N. resolutions calling for peaceful uses of space, I don't think that will stop an aggressor nation from using space for aggressive purposes."

The possibility cannot be dismissed. But the chances of a violation must be kept in perspective. It is the nature of treaties that they may be broken, as history abundantly proves. Of course the space agreement may be violated, should Russia—or the United States, for that matter—decide that this step is justified by the national interest. The principle value of this treaty is that its presence in the body of world law, ratified by perhaps scores of nations, will greatly reduce the danger of arms competition in space.

Johnson tells the Democrats, "We'll have to be closer knit." That make sense — after the unraveling they got in the election.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

ROMNEY AND THE CORNUELLE LINE

Richard Goodwin, so one of those "inside stories" has it, is the person who recommended that President Johnson replace the New Frontier with something called the Great Society. The phrase, of course, was lifted from the title page of a fifty-year-old book, "The Great Society," written by the English Fabian socialist, Graham Wallas. It sounded good, it had a noble and uplifting ring, but like all phrases of the type it was destined from the start to have a limited life. The reason: it would necessarily raise expectations which, in the nature of things, cannot by satisfied by Washington action. Goodwin himself recognized this before his departure from the White House as LBJ's adviser.

Now, even before LBJ's first full term of office is half completed, the attrition is well under way. Senators Abe Ribicoff of Connecticut and Bobby Kennedy of New York are already off the LBJ reservation in one direction: they want the Great Society replaced by the Super-Great Society, which will spend a trillion dollars to tear down and rebuild America's central cities. (It's only money boys and girls.) Then there is the crowd of legislators, both Democratic and Republican, who want to turn the job of wiping out urban blight and taking poison out of the air and the streams over to public corporations that are partly private and partly government-owned. "Comsat-like" is the word for this sort of proposition. Finally, there is Richard Cornuelle, the new vice president in charge of programs at the National Association of Manufacturers. Mr. Cornuelle wants the "independent sector"— the big foundations, the thousands of voluntary associations of one sort or another that may be found in every state, city and hamlet—to take over the welfare and retraining and rebuilding jobs that come with such prohibitive price tags when they are financed out of federal money. Mr. Cornuelle has documented his ideas in a remarkable book called "Reclaiming the American Dream."

This columnist, as long-tinme partisan of Mr. Cornuelle, thinks the voluntary approach is the only one that can succeed. Money that is spent through and by politicians is like fool's gold. It vanishes before you can get a grip on it. Partly it goes to sustain bureaucracies, partly it dribbles away in charity that leaves the recipient right where he was before he got it.

Mr. Cornuelle has been pushing his ideas with the help of the so-called "new" National Association of Manufacturers. It must have pleased him no end last week to hear himself singled out as a sociological prophet at the annual meeting of the NAM in New York by no less a person than Governor George Romney of Michigan.

Romney, so it appeared from his speech from the NAM has bought the Cornuelle theory, hook, line and sinker. He polished it up for Cornuelle in an eloquent oration which spoke of "four-dimensional problem solving" by various "action centers." Listed first by Romney were the people's "voluntary associations," which provide "cooperative action centers." Second, there was listed the "private enterprises which provide independent competitive action centers." Third, there are "state and local governments" which offer "locally oriented action centers close to the people and their control." And forth and last, as the "action center farthest removed from the people's direction and control," there is the federal government, clearly a center of "last resort" in the Romney estimation.

The truly interesting thing about the Romney speech was that it took off from a recital of actual experience in Michigan, where 4,000 college students, responding to the urgings of a University of Michigan sociology professor, have been giving voluntary time to help with remedial teaching in the grade schools, and where private philanthropists have been putting up money to enable communities such as Flint and Iron Mountain to finance "community school" programs that make use of school facilities on a day-and-night, all-year-round basis.

Romney is billed as a "liberal," but the stuff he fed the NAM executives was something that made little connection with the cliche spectrum that has afflicted American political reporting for the past generation. If Romney's line represents enduring convictions, and if he can keep turning up instances to prove the feasibility of those convictions, the Republican conservatives may find themselves charmed into agreeing with the liberals that he is a man for 1968. Provided, of course, that foreign policy is not the distracting issue of the time.

The DOCTOR SAYS

Cough Causes Are Varied, Let a Doctor Find Them

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A cough is primarily an explosive attempt to clear the air passages of liquid, gaseous and solid irritants. As such, it is a protective device and in many cases should be encouraged rather than suppressed. Everybody coughs at times. Everyone who coughs isn't sick and everyone who has a chest disease doesn't cough.

Coughs have many causes, some serious and some not so serious. In winter and spring the commonest causes are respiratory infections, such as colds, sinusitis with its post-nasal drip, laryngitis, bronchitis, pneumonia, measles, whooping cough and tuberculosis. In a city, dust, soot and other forms of air pollution are common causes.

In the allergic the cause may be pollens or animal dandruff. A cough may be the result of heavy smoking, exposure to a blast of hot, dry or very cold air, irregular heart beats, leaky heart valves, pressure on the windpipe by a goiter or a cancer, irritation of the pleura, or it may be a nervous habit.

When a respiratory infection is present the tiny hair-like cilia that line the mucous membrane of the air passages keep the inflammatory fluids gently flowing toward the upper windpipe and throat so that the sputum can be coughed up or swallowed. For this type of cough, drugs, such as ammonium chloride and potassium iodide that loosen or liquefy the secretions and make them easier to raise, are given but for a dry, hacking cough, cough-suppressing drugs are needed.

Because of the wide variety of causes it is unwise to neglect a cough in the hope that it will go away. Have your doctor determine the cause. If it is nothing serious you and your doctor will both rest better, but if it is serious, you should get prompt treatment. In any case your doctor will want to treat the cause—not just the cough.

To relieve an annoying little tickling in your throat in church or in a theatre, recent studies have shown that no kind of cough drop is any more effective than a plain peppermint or fruit-flavored candy lozenge.

Q—How can a laboratory tell whether a sample of blood is from a man or a woman?

A—It can't, but it can often tell by serologic tests whether an unknown blood stain could or could not have come from a given person. This kind of test is widely used in crime laboratories.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

"There's a Card in Here from Washington, Says: 'Get Well Quick'."

Washington News

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Johnson's friends defend him today as always as just about the most knowlegeable man on government matters of any who ever held the presidency.

What is going to be sorely tested in 1967 and beyond, however, is not what he already knows but what he can learn.

To be exact, the measure will be put upon his capacity for growth. In the context of the presidency, this means more than simply soaking up huge volumes of new facts. It means showing a capacity to change as a man.

It is not any kind of news that Lyndon Johnson in the White House is basically a one-man band. People who worked closely with him in his 1960 campaign for the vice presidency privately foretold how he would be as a chief executive. He could not keep his hands off any campaign problem, no matter how trivial.

What has happened since is reasonably well-established history. His grasping for all details, his secretiveness, his suspiciousness are legendary. Whatever his reliance upon certain key men, however much "advice" he seems to seek, it appears that in the end he trusts only himself to do things and to know what and when action will come.

This habit is portrayed constantly by his aides as the necessary caution of a conscientious president who wants to wrap up everything tightly before moving — since a move once as so high a level can never quite be recalled or reversed.

But veteran president-watchers, at the risk of being dubbed amateur psychologists, see in this Johnson trait a high quotient of intended self-protection.

This is a natural characteristic of politicians the world over. Those who lack it generally do not last long in the trade.

The notion is developing in this town, nevertheless, that this urge to self-protection — as acted upon by Johnson — has within it the seeds of political self-destruction.

In some ways the President has tried to run the Vietnam war out of his 10-gallon hat, somewhat as if he were a Texas rancher trying to rid his cattle preserve of pesky sheepherders from Hanoi.

Since they fall on the citizenry with every ureven impact, limited wars are more unfair and more unpopular than general wars. There is no evidence they are made more palatable by having some of their costs and other burdens hidden from general view. They are not hidden from the people they hurt.

The country soon will know how the war cost and inflation factors are to be faced—whether with or without new taxes. But Johnson never has approached the problem with the open simplicity Harry Truman gave it. In successive years of the Korean war, he slapped on new levies of first $5 billion and then $11 billion.

Nor has the President chosen to tell people frankly what a nearly hopeless struggle it is for him to try to meet rising goals of Great Society programs in education, health care, etc., while fighting a bitter war.

He has given away potential sympathy from Americans by pretending they could pay for costly combat, finance the most ambitious social programs, in history and yet feel no great strain. As the poverty program and others falter from fund shortages, he is reaping the inevitable harvest of criticism — with more in store.

To top it all, he has tried to run the Democratic party from the White House with only one man, the able Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien, who brasps national party politics.

The President truly has neglected the political mechanism he needs to assure him a new chance after 1968 to make the big power decisions he loves to hug to his chest. Ironically, therefore, this political Mr. Solo could wind up gravely spitting himself if he does not change enough to hand to others vital pieces of the big action.

Controversy Stresses Need Of FBI as Independent Unit

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The controversy between the Federal Bureau of Investigation and a former attorney general as to when wiretapping and eavesdropping are justified or illegal could have a salutary result. For sooner or later the American people will have to face up to the fact that the Department of Justice is a political body, subject to the whims of a president or an attorney general, and this raises the question of whether law enforcement shouldn't be completely separated in the future from the executive branch of the government.

To put in the hands of a cabinet officer the power to decide how laws shall be enforced means that political pressures can interfere with prosecutions or can lead to the use of the investigative mechanism as a weapon of political reprisal.

The Attorney General of the United States today is not responsible directly to the people. Yet in most cities and counties the prosecuting attorney must go before the electorate periodically so that judgment can regularly be passed on his particular performance in office.

The Department of Justice, as a law-enforcement agency, logically has a close relationship to the judicial branch of government, and is being constantly supervised by orders or opinions rendered by the courts. It is apparent from the current dispute over "bugging" that there is no clear definition of where public rights begin or end and when privacy must be respected.

Congress has the power under the Constitution to write laws that not only prescribe the jurisdiction of the Federal courts but also authorize steps to be taken from time to time to enforce the laws of the land.

Law enforcement, moreover, is a task so closely related to interpretations of law that it would be more natural to have the head of the FBI serve a 15-year term and report directly to Congress — as is the case with the Comptroller General — than to make him responsible, as at present, to the edicts of the man in the White House or his Attorney General.

Within the past 80 years, Congress has established what are known as "independent agencies" —the first being the Interstate Commerce Commission in 1887. Many similar bodies have been created since. Their rulings are subject to court review, and they have become quasi-judicial commissions of the government. Their members are appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate. They are not supposed to be under the duress or pressure of the president, and have the right to act independently of the executive branch of the government. An analogous setup for the Federal Bureau of Investigation would at least permit its detachment from politics and would assure impartiality in handling the rules of law enforcement and investigative procedures.

It is true that through all the years during which the Federal Bureau of Investigation has operated there have been relatively few instances of political interference by any administration. But the president or his representative in the Department of Justice does have the power to tell the FBI what to do. This has just been emphasized by the disclosure of various memoranda passing between the FBI and Robert F. Kennedy when he was holding the office of Attorney General and his brother was President of the United States.

It has taken a good deal of courage for J. Edgar Hoover, who has been director of the FBI since 1924, to stand up to all the attorneys general who have from time to time sought to give him instructions as to what his agency could or could not do in law enforcement. Fortunately, most of these differences have been resolved without publicity and in a constructive way. But the weakness in the system still prevails, and will not be cured until the FBI is set up as an independent agency similar to the various federal commissions already established by Congress.

The tree from which the cashew nut is obtained is related to the American poison ivy. People are often poisoned by allowing their skin to come in contact with some of its parts. This poison is entirely removed from the kernels by roasting.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

No doubt many of the new 1966 Christmas stamps printed in five colors will be used for the holidays. The first day ceremonies were held Nov. 1, at Christmas, Mich. The stamp was designed from the central portion of Memling's oil, Madonna and Child with Angels, which hangs in the National Gallery of Art, at Washington, D. C. as part of the Mellon collection. Memling painted the scene on wood about 1480, and only measures 18 by 23 inches. It is painted in fine detail by the German-born artist. Stamp looks like a tiny miniature, such as were popular before photography. Anyone wishing to know anything special about stamps, can visit the Stamptrotters Society of Kingston, a meeting will be held Dec. 22, Thursday, at the Y.W.C.A. at 8 p. m. If you are in doubt about any old envelopes or stamps you may have, bring it along, and the members are most helpful and instructive.

There are so many phases of stamp and covers (envelope) collecting that one could not go into it. I like pictures, and especially on covers, if they are first day covers, so much the better, but I like original ones, not those put out in mass production. First Day Covers were serviced at our Kingston main Post Office, for the August, 1965, Fulton stamp, and members of the Stamp Club were taken through the process by Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk. Dozens of girls sat in various rooms, pasting stamps, and servicing, and men were cancelling on a very small machine with "First Day of Issue," and proper dated.

Those who may have old post cards and envelopes which are used and cancelled, they may see what is called flag cancels between 1894 and 1941.

Those who have a few of those, which look like a flag with stars and mast, can read a great deal about it in Linn's Weekly stamp News of Feb. 28, 1966. They say there are some 7,000 different machine cancels. They had handstamped flag cancels going back to the 1850's. There is also a Flag Cancel Society, and have a publication called "Flag Cancellations." Among the members they exchange items of which they have several. Around the holidays, one often goes into old boxes of holiday cards or letters for addresses and there one often finds old Christmas cards with these flag cancellations. Thus I found a few. In one of the antique items, someone was asking for Santa Claus post cards, in which he does not wear the popular red coat, as it seems in older cards he wore other colors. I think I have one of those cards.

If you have any letters from Mexico, going back to about 1901, you may have Mexican Weather Report Flag cancellations. It seems, according to Edward Hopps that they had an individual flag cancel for each kind of weather report, and thus used the Spanish wording within the flag cancellation like "Calaroso" for warm, hot. They had "Nebuloso" for cloudy, and "Frio" for frigid weather. Thus the weather, and date is all in the cancellation. The weather report is where our stars are. H. L. Shetler writes that in the early 1930's there were some 700 to 800 flag cancellation machines in smaller post offices. I am wondering if any local post offices used the flag cancellation. They also had running turkeys in cancellation, all these items collectors look for today. Albert T. Deluca, a first day cover collector gave me this interesting magazine on flag cancellations.

Urges Widespread Review of NATO, Possible Revision

PARIS (AP) — Belgium, with the support of Britain and Canada, launched a move today for a widespread review and possible revision of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization into a more cohesive Atlantic community.

Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Harmel made his proposal at the annual meeting of the foreign, defense and finance ministers of NATO.

Harmel urged the council to authorize NATO Secretary-General Manlio Brosio to undertake a wide study of the NATO organization in the next 12 months.

Could Amend Treaty

Such a review could, in the Belgian view, lead to eventual amendment of the NATO treaty to encourage greater political, economic and military consultation among European members prior to talks with the United States within the NATO structure.

Harmel cited various changes which have occurred in the political, economic, military and technological areas since 1949. He also cited the fact that under the treaty any member can withdraw after 1969.

Harmel seeks to promote greater political cohesion among the European members of NATO, and especially among the six members of the Common Market. He said the growing political and economic integration of Western Europe should be reflected within the NATO framework.

German Factor

His proposal was also obviously aimed at encouraging further political integration of Western Europe as a channel for German energies and ambitions.

Another purpose was to inject new life into the NATO alliance, which has been sagging as a result of French President Charles de Gaulle's withdrawal of France from the military structure. The proposal fits in with De Gaulle's ideas for a greater and more independent European position in dealing with the United tates.

Later today the council, meeting for probably the last time in Paris before NATO's political headquarters moves to Brussels, Belgium, was expected to dicuss the Vietnam war and wase to ease tension with the Soviet bloc.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who spent a weekend in Saigon en route to the meeting, was expected to give a first-hand account of the situation in Vietnam and to ask for more support from the alliance.

France is not only unwilling to help the United States in Vietnam, it considers American withdrawal to be the only realistic solution to the conflict. There also is some sentiment within NATO that the best way to seek a settlement with the Soviets is by ending the war in Southeat Asia.

Divide on Approach

The alliance is also divided on how to approach the Soviets to ease relations — bloc-to-bloc, as the United States advocates, or country-to-country, as France is doing.

The ministers turned to political questions today after settling their most pressing military organizational problems Wednesday on the opening day of the annual conference.

First of all, they institutionalized the split between France — which has withdrawn from NATO's military structure — and the rest of the alliance. With their defense ministers, they held a working session of the Defense Planning Committee, made up of the other 14 allies who now will decide military questions.

Four Permanent Members

The 14 set up a seven-nation, Nuclear Planning Group to oversee the political and strategic use of NATO's nuclear arsenal and to give West Germany and the smaller allies a voice in nuclear planning for the first time.

The planning group will have four permanent members — the United States, Britain, West Germany and Italy — and three members chosen on a rotating basis.

The planning group was designed to meet West German aspirations to a voice in nuclear strategy but still leave the way open for the United States to sign a treaty with the Soviet Union banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

File Indictments For 15 of 19 in Minutemen Plot

NEW YORK (AP) — A Queens grand jury has returned indictments against 15 of 19 members of the para-military Minutemen organization arrested in an alleged plot to blow up three camps the group considered leftist-oriented.

A warrant was issued for a 16th man, accused of taking part in the conspiracy. The grand jury did not indict four men arrested with the group October 30.

As the indictments were handed up Wednesday, demonstrators paraded outside the Queens County courthouse, carrying signs that read "Would Our Boys in Vietnam Want a Minuteman Arrested?" and "God Bless the Minutemen."

The Minutemen were seized with what police said was over a ton of rifles, machine guns, mortars, grenade launchers and ammunition as they allegedly prepared to bomb camps in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

The group pleaded innocent to charges of conspiracy to commit arson, endangering life by maliciously placing explosives near buildings, possession of dangerous weapons, possession of weapons hidden in cars and possession of explosives and combustibles.

All those indicted, with the exception of a Katonah, N.Y., resident, live in Queens or Long Island. The arrest warrant was issued for Milton Kellogg of Syracuse.

John C. Fremont explored Utah's Great Salt Lake, which is now shrinking, in 1843 and his description influenced Brigham Young, the Mormon pioneer, to come to the lake area.

Reports Confusion Delaying Showdown in China Unrest

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Confusion generated by Red revolution" may be delaying a showdown in the Peking power struggle, but recent events point toward two strong factions bracing for a decisive test of strength.

Evidently there is is discord among the supporters of the cultural revolution themselves and the young Red Guards who are their instruments for violence. They seem to have much difficulty sorting out friend from enemy.

Hints at Test

Speeches by Premier Chou En-lai hint at a test between "the people" — by which he means the ruling party group — and "enemies of the people," meaning those suspected of opposing Mao Tse-tung and Defense Minister Lin Piao.

But the question of just who are people and who are nonpeople or enemies of the people seems to be creating anxiety among party members and officials, as if they were having difficulty determining which leaders could speak with authority and which could not. This is also reflected lower down the ladder among the Red Guards. Some attack certain officials while others defend them.

Intensify Assaults

However, assaults on high-up leaders have been intensified. Up to now these have been appearing on Red Guard posters and in Red Guards papers. The signal that a big clash is in the offing likely will come when the attacks are taken up by the powerful central organs of the Chinese Communist press.

Accounts broadcast by Peking and those of foreign Communists in China disclose that there are still hundreds of thousands of Red Guards from the hinterland in Peking whose stay has been extended. They must be staying on for some specific purpose.

All this indicates the clash is getting closer. But who will win?

The Soviet Communist party press has been singling out Lin Piao, as well as Mao, for criticism. Evidently, the Russians figure that Lin Piao has the inside track and regard him as the heir upon whom Mao has decided to confer his power. But the Russians also appear to believe that the issue is yet to be decided.

Stress Importance of Viet Landing Zones for Copters

By ROBERT D. OHMAN

PLEIKU, Vietnam (AP) — To the Allied combat soldier in Vietnam, LZ means food, water and mail. Often it means life or death.

The letters stand for landing zone, and in this helicopter war any spot large enough for a chopper to drop into becomes an LZ. If the jungle offers no natural clearing GIs mke one with machetes, TNT and muscle. They call them instant LZs.

Became Experts

Troopers of the 3rd Brigade of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division have become experts in creating them. They had to. They've been tramping up mountain and down for months in the rugged terrain west of Pleiku, near the Cambodian border, where the jungle closes over slopes like a thick, green carpet.

When an LZ is needed for helicopters to bring in supplies or take out the dead and wounded, the infantrymen drop their rifles and begin hacking at the massive teak trees and matted undergrowth.

The brigade's 1st battalion of the 35th Infantry has chopped so many LZs since August that the first sergeant, Clifton Bergman, 37, of Homer, N.Y., has lost count. "When the stuff isn't too thick, we can cut one out in an hour or two," he said, "when it's real bad, it might take us three."

It was bad one day when the battalion commander, Lt. Col. Robert C. Kingston, 38, of North Easton, Mass., decided an LZ was needed.

He had led two companies on a grueling two-day march through the mountains in search of North Vietnamese regulars whose bunkers and base camps dotted the slopes. There had been only minor contact when the troops hit Hill 1048 (elevation 1,048 meters).

Kingston picked that as his base. The companies would probe the surrounding mountains and Kingston wanted an LZ to evacuate the wounded if the North Vietnamese put up a fight.

He offered his men an incentive — hot chow that night if the LZ was completed.

Perimeter Setup

A defensive perimeter was set up and at 2:30 p.m. the infantrymen attacked the forest growth with machetes. A hovering helicopter lowered a chain saw by rope through the 120-foot canopy and then four cases — 200 pounds — of TNT were kicked out. The explosives were for the big threes, three feet or more in diameter. Anything smaller was machete material.

A half-hour after the hacking began sunlight filtered through the tree tops. At the cry of "fire in the hole," the troopers fled the clearing and a blast sheared off one of the giant trees and sent it crashing.

Bergman and the other sergeants scoured the nearby bamboo groves to hustle the soldiers out and back to work. Water had been scarce and the brigade's soldiers know they can get as much as a glass of cool, sweetish water from a single bamboo section — if they find the right bamboo.

By 5 p.m., with dusk approaching, the future LZ was an opening about 50 yards wide and 100 yards long but it was criss-crossed with the tree trunks. Kingston and his crew held a quick session and agreed it was impossible to clear away the trunks. The alternative — build a log platform atop of the fallen trees.

At 5:30 p.m. a 20-foot-square platform was completed and a yellow smoke grenade guided the first chopper down with the pilots feeling gingerly for the platform.

Whooping troopers rushed to meet it. They formed a chain and within three minutes had unloaded the cargo of hot food, soda pop and beer.

Other choppers followed and the resupply was completed before darkness settled in.

"We should have done much better," Bergman said. "We should have knocked this one out in two hours."

Has No Plans To Resign Yet Shriver Declares

By TOM SEPPY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sargent Shriver says he has no plans to resign as head of the federal antipoverty agency. But to hear him tell it, neither is he sure how long he'll remain on the job.

It sounds confusing, and Shriver agrees.

More Confusing

"That's why I dislike talking about it," the head of the Office of Economic Opportunity said in an interview. "Every time I discuss the subject, it becomes more confusing because my statements are misinterpreted by someone."

He did attempt to clarify the situation.

"I have no immediate plans," he said. "I'm not dissatisfied with my work. I don't want to sound like an egotist or anything like that but I do believe we've done a whole lot here."

But: "I'm like everybody else, I guess," he said. "I look around and I have got some very fine offers. We all love to go on to bigger and better things, you know, finding the big challenge.

No Difficulty

"I have always liked to feel that anytime President Kennedy (Shriver's brother-in-law) or President Johnson wanted to assign me to other duties or to replace me, they could do so without having any difficulty."

Much of the speculation on Shriver's leaving the agency began last month when he called a news conference to explain cutbacks in the antipoverty program because of lack of funds.

The news conference and his subsequent statements have been interpreted as Shriver's way of telling Johnson and Congress he doesn't expect the agency's fiscal 1968 budget request to be cut.

If the budget request is slashed, the thinking goes, Shriver will leave.

On Dec. 2, Shriver said he is not presently a candidate for governor of Illinois or any other elective office but he left the door open for the future.

Shriver was appointed director of the Peace Corps in 1961 by Kennedy. When the Office of Economic Opportunity was formed three years ago, he was named director and held both jobs until earlier this year.

Ninth District, Marlboro, population 4683; Plattekill, 3009; Lloyd, 5842, and Shawangunk, 4604. Total population in district 18,318. Ideal population 18,000. Deviation 1.7 per cent. Five representatives.

Twelfth District, Woodstock, total population 3,836. Ideal population 3,600. Deviation 6.16 per cent. One representative.

The reapportionment is based on residents of each legislative district. The county population total is 118,804.

Should the proposed reapportionment plan be adopted residents of all areas of the county would have an equal representation on the county legislative body.

Presently the two small towns of Denning, population 215, and Hardengergh, population 252, each has one vote on the board of supervisors while such towns as Saugerties, with a population of 13,608 and Wawarsing, with a population of 11,245 each are represented by only one supervisor with one vote from each town. This also prevails in the larger wards of the City of Kingston where each ward is represented on the board of supervisors with one man and one vote regardless of population.

Under a court order the board of supervisors must submit a reapportionment plan to the court for approval by December 31, or steps will be taken by the court to reapportion the county.

Most N.Y. Areas Are Wrestling With Problem of Reapportionment

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—From Suffolk to Erie, most New York State counties are wrestling with the problem of how to give the taxpayer fair representation in county government.

The turmoil has grown out of the U.S. Supreme Court's decision three years ago that seats in state legislatures should be distributed equitably on the basis of population.

Decision Mandated

The decision is called the "one-man, one-vote" mandate to county boards of supervisors. Some of the moves met with resistance. Court fights began. Referendums were conducted. Taxpayers challenged the outcome of the referendums.

Some counties actually implemented changes in the make-up of their governing bodies.

At the heart of the complex reapportionment matter was a desire on the part of some to alter situations like that in Suffolk County.

Each of the 10 towns in Suffolk has one seat with one vote on the Board of Supervisors, although their populations range from 1,312 for Shelter Island to 172,959 for Islip.

Similar situations abound throughout the state.

In last month's elections, voters in 17 counties dealt with plans to reapportion county legislative bodies. In 12 counties, the plans were approved. In Delaware, Erie, Genesee, Otsego and Rockland counties, the electorate rejected the reapportionment plans.

Approved in 12

The 12 counties in which the plans were approved are Albany, Broome, Dutchess, Essex, Herkimer, Oneida, Onondaga, Orange, St. Lawrence, Steuben, Suffolk and Warren.

In spite of the approval, some of the plans are the subject of continued court battles.

The Suffolk County plan, for instance, is now under review by the U.S. Supreme Court. Opponents of the so-called weighted-voting plan contend that the plan, ordered into effect by a three-judge federal court, violates the equal protection clause of the U.S. Constitution.

Under weighted voting, members of a governing body are given one vote for each specified number of voters in their districts.

1 for Each 5,000

In Suffolk, for instance, each supervisor may have as many votes as indicated by dividing the population of his town by 5,080 to the nearest whole number. Thus, a supervisor representing a town of 10,000 persons would have two votes. No supervisor will have less than one vote.

The Suffolk case in being studied by the U.S. Supreme Court along with two out-of-state cases involving county reapportionment. In the other two, federal courts refused to order reapportionment because the Supreme Court had not ruled that the one-man, one-vote principle was applicable to governmental subdivisions.

Two New York counties—Monroe and Schenectady — have established reapportionment plans. Monroe's new county legislature, elected last month under a plan approved last year, will take office next Jan. 1. Schenectady's Board of Representatives will be elected next November and seated Jan. 1, 1968.

In Various Stages

Other counties, besides those that acted on reapportionment in the Nov. 8 election, are in various stages of inactivity or action on the matter.

Counties that have the matter under study include Allegany, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Chenango, Cortland, Fulton, Hamilton, Jefferson, Lewis, Livingston, Montgomery, Nassau, Ontario, Orleans, Putnam and Schoharie.

Counties where plans are awaiting referendums are Cayuga, Westchester and Yates. Counties looking for the Legislature to approve enabling legislation for local reapportionment are Niagara, Wyoming and Oswego. Columbia and Tompkins Counties have recommended plans but have taken no further action.

Among the other counties involved in court appeals on reapportionment are Chemung, Clinton, Saratoga, Seneca and Washington.

In Madison and Greene counties, boards have authorized creation of committees to study the matter.

There has been little or no recent action on reapportionment in Wayne, Ontario, Tioga, Ulster, Franklin and Rensselaer counties.

Moyers Triggers Start of Capital Game of Guessing

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bill D. Moyers got $30,000 a year as President Johnson's press secretary and after his brother committed suicide last September friends began telling him he ought to look out for himself.

Moyers is 32 and his brother, James H. Moyers, a widely liked but much more inconspicuous man, was also a very hardworking Johnson aide. He was 39 when he died.

Bill Moyers, with chronic ulcers and bright blue eyes, has been in a kind of Johnson alter ego. He labored endless hours. He got involved in all kinds of White House business, foreign and domestic.

He could speak with great confidence about what the President had on his mind which, in this case, took some confidence.

He was always on hand and totally dedicated. And he was always so cool, so composed, that after watching him for "Does anything bother him? Does anything get under his skin?"

But he has a wife and three children and almost from the time he became Johnson's press secretary in July 1965 — he had been with Johnson almost continuously since 1959 — there were rumors this was just a stepping stone.

No one ever seemed to know for sure where he wanted to go but only that he was ambitious. There were rumors, unconfirmed, that he'd like to be an ambassador, that he'd like to go into politics.

In either direction Johnson — so long as he was in the White House — could have been a big help. But the months passed, Moyers stayed, so did the ulcers, so did the fixed salary of $30,000, and there was the brother dead at 39, and, as it turned out, he was seriously thinking of doing better for himself, at least financially.

Wednesday came the news: He was leaving Johnson and the White House to become publisher of Long Island's Newsday, the country's larget suburban daily, with a circulation of 415,000.

Although the salary wasn't disclosed, it can be assumed Moyers will get a lot more than $30,000.

The news of Moyers' new job was hardly off the wires before the Washington guessing game began:

Was money the real reason for his going into publishing or did he have inside information that Johnson would not seek a second term and that now was the best time to make the best kind of deal he could for himself?

That same question about Johnson and the second term was being asked before Moyers' resignation was announced and will continue to be asked until there is some change in Johnson's political attitude which for months now has seemed almost

Yearend Business In Auto Industry Seen as Big If

DETROIT (AP) — With reports on yearend prospects in from three of the nation's four major automakers, the mood in the industry appeared today best summed up in one word — if.

That was the theme of review-outlook statements Wednesday by Henry Ford II, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., and Roy Abernethy, president of American Motors Corp.

Follows Tone

They closely followed the tone of an earlier yearend statement by Frederick Donner, chairman of General Motors. The yearend statement by Chrysler Chairman Lynn Townsend was due late today and was expected to make the industry uncertainty unanimous.

Traditionally the most outspoken of the auto chieftains, Ford talked with newsmen at his annual review-outlook meeting of his hopes for labor peace in the upcoming contract year, resurgence from a current sales slump and renewal of consumer confidence.

He injected a new cause for uncertainty when he became the first top auto executive to predict that some safety standards that may be required by the federal government in 1968 models would make it impossible to build certain cars, forcing some plants to close down.

Ford added that no matter what the government finally requires when it publishes its list Jan. 31 of the safety features mandatory for 1968 models, the consumer will have to bear the cost.

The automakers have until Jan. 3 to reply to the 23 safety standards suggested last month by Dr William Haddon, first highway safety chief, under the Highway Safety Act of 1966.

$5.28 Milk Price

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Dairymen in the Niagara Frontier Milk Marketing area will be paid a uniform price of $5.28 per hundredweight (46.5 quarts) for their November milk, it was announced today.

The price compared with $5.36 in October and $4.82 in November 1965.

Market administrator LeRoy J. Hardy, who announced the price, said the November butterfat differential had been set at 6 cents for milk over or under 3.5 per cent in butterfat content.

Almost Buried Alive

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — John Edwards fell asleep in a large trash bin and came within minutes of being buried alive by a bulldozer.

The bin, containing trash, boxes, garbage and the 47-year-old transient was dumped into a large truck. The contents were compressed under 45,000 pounds of pressure.

Four hours later, the truck dumped its load at the city dump. Workers heard groans and spotted Edwards' head protruding. A bulldozer was due 10 minutes later to bury the trash.

Tiffany Breakfast No Cereal, Cream, A $400,000 Flop

NEW YORK (AP) — "Breakfast at Tiffany's," the season's most awaited musical, has flopped before its $1 - million guaranteed opening on Broadway. Producer David Merrick called the sudden closing "my Bay of Pigs."

Over $1 million in tickets had been bought for the show, an adaptation of the Truman Capote story. The money, Merrick said, would be returned. Merrick said he expected to take a $400,000 loss.

"Rather than subject the drama critics and the theater-going public to an excruciatingly boring evening, I decided to close," Merrick said Wednesday.

The show, starring television performers Mary Tyler Moore and Richard Chamberlain, had four preview performances in New York after weeks of tryouts in Boston and Philadelphia. It was scheduled to open here Dec. 26.

At Tuesday night's preview at the Majestic Theater, a quarter of the benefit audience walked out. Applause was thin and laughter scarce.

The only big guffaw came embarrassingly unwanted — when the script had a woman detective punch Miss Moore, playing Capote's hoyden Holly Golightly, in the stomach. Scenes, performers, dance sequences, and songs indicated in the program were not presented.

Capote, not involved in the production, disclosed reservations about it but said the show was "a really faithful adaptation."

once. Johnson reportedly countermanded the order.

Sources close to the Kennedy family said Manchester's book contains "other things that involve LBJ which are distorted and unfair."

Last Nov. 22 — the third anniversary of the assassination — Malcolm M. Kilduff, press aide in charge of the presidential changeover at Dallas, said in an interview:

Things Happened

"I think that there are things that happened, especially on the plane coming back, that could be embarrassing to both the Kennedys and the Johnsons." He declined to go into details.

Kilduff added that in the emotional intensity of the moment "some of the old 1960 wounds were reopened, rehashed, thought about." This apparently referred to the bitter struggle between Kennedy and Johnson for the Democratic nomination for president that Kennedy won.

Nevertheless, Kilduff said, "Johnson showed concern for Mrs. Kennedy and members of the Kennedy family during the flight from Dallas to Washington."

To support Mrs. Kennedy's book violated the terms of the agreement under which it was written, this and other episodes may be aired.

Issues Statement

Mrs. Kennedy's statement said in part:

"Look magazine, Harper & Row, and Mr. William Manchester have repeatedly made clear that only legal action can alter their insistence upon publishing at this time — without regard to accepted standards of propriety and good faith, and in specific violation of my witnesses, my contract with Mr. Manchester and the dignity and privacy which my children and I have striven with difficulty to retain—a premature account of the events of November 1963 that is in part both tasteless and distorted.

"I am shocked that Mr. Manchester would exploit the emotional state in which I recounted my recollections to him early in 1964, and I am equally shocked that reputable publishers would take commercial advantage of his failure to keep his word. To the author and publishers, this book will be only another transient chapter in their work; but my children and I will have to live with it for the rest of our lives."

Has Confidence

Manchester said, "I have confidence in the book. I think it will stand on its own. I ask only that people give it a chance."

William Attwood, editor-in-chief of Look, issued a statement Wednesday night saying cancellation of the scheduled publication now would amount to "censorship of history." He said Look intended to go ahead.

Attwood's statement said:

"To keep the record straight, the public should know that Mrs. Kennedy asked Gardner Cowles, editorial chairman of Cowles Communications, Inc., last August to postpone the start of the serialization in Look so that the serialization would not be occurring during the anniversary of the assassination.

"That is the time of year that she said was most difficult for her. Look agreed to postponement in accordance with her wishes.

Agreed Twice

"Two weeks later, she requested that Look's serialization be reduced from the seven installments originally contemplated. Look agreed to this second request in deference to her feelings and rescheduled the serialization to four installments.

"In late September, Mrs. Kennedy asked Look to see her representative who wanted to suggest several changes in certain episodes in the manuscript which particularly distressed her. After several conferences, Look sent an editor to England to discuss these changes with Mr. Manchester who agreed to a number of changes in the areas which were particularly troubling Mrs. Kennedy.

Wanted Changes

"Then Mrs. Kennedy asked Cass Canfield, chairman of the executive committee of Harper & Row, to meet wth Gardner Cowles to consider some further changes. These were considered with great care at two editing sessions lasting over many hours. A majority of them were finally agreed upon with Mr. Manchester.

"Other changes or deletions were made by Mr. Canfield and Mr. Cowles which they felt would also avoid distress for the Kennedy family without in any way impairing the accuracy of completeness of the author's important manuscript."

Harper & Row said the firm had made four sets of substantial revisions to the book at the request of Mrs. Kennedy and other members of the family.

After the first series, the firm said in a statement, the Kennedy's officially notified them "members of the family will place no obstacle in the way of publication."

Did Its Utmost

The statement said, "Harper & Row has done its utmost to comply with the wishes of the Kennedy family and deeply regrets their present attitude."

A source close to Mrs. Kennedy, who called the dispute "this sad story," gave this version of the events that led up to it:

"Early in 1964 it became apparent to Mrs. Kennedy and other members of the family there would be sensational versions of the assassination. They were getting many queries.

"Mrs. Kennedy felt an obligation to speak to history. So, for the double reason of taste and history, it was determined to serve the national interest in one good accurate account."

The source said a "memorandum of understanding" spelled out the terms under which Manchester, selected by the family, would write the book. It was signed by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and William Manchester.

Has 11 Clauses

It is dated March 26, 1964, and contains 11 clauses. The Kennedys consider two of these have immediate bearing on the case.

One reads, "The completed manuscript shall be reviewed by Mrs. John F. Kennedy and Robert F. Kennedy and the text shall not be published unless and until approved by them."

The other reads, "The book may not be published before Nov. 22, 1968, unless Mrs. Kennedy designates a prior date and shall be published at a date thereafter as shall be mutually agreeable to the contracting parties."

Mrs. Kennedy, the source continued, then gave Manchester two long interviews in early 1964.

"She was in a state of grief, of course," the informant said. "She was not self-censoring but relying on his agreement not to publish anything that would be offenive to her."

Is Offensive

"The material is offensive in that it delineates her feelings during that period," the source said. "No woman would want these things disclosed to the world."

When Manchester's manuscript wa finished, the source said, it was read by four persons, Richard Goodwin, special assistant to President Kennedy; Pamela Timmons, Mrs. Kennedy's secretary; John Siegenthaler, editor of The Nashville Tennessean, and Edwin O. Guthman of the Los Angeles Times who had been press secretary to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Kennedy and Sen. Kennedy have not read the book

Goodwin and Mrs Timmons, the source continued, advised Mrs. Kennedy and Sen. Kennedy of the contents of certain passages. Revisions were suggested. Whether these were the same changes as those referred to by Attwood and the spokesman for Harper & Row was not clear.

Has Doubts

Then, last summer, the informant said, Manchester apparently had doubts as to whether his book would "ever be published." The source said he did not know what had induced this feeling.

"But in any case, assurances were requested, and Sen. Kennedy sent a telegram in which he said that, subject to the terms of the memorandum of understanding, the Kennedy family would not stand in the way of publication," the informant said.

The source said Mrs. Kennedy's request for an injunction to halt publication of the book was essentially based on two contentions:

1. That Mrs. Kennedy and Sen. Kennedy had not given their approval.

2. "It is invasion of privacy, the breach of a solemn agreement that things about her would not be published without her approval."

LOOK OVER 'IDOL'—Elmer Carney, co-chairman of the Commitee to Save Perrine's Covered Bridge and Miss Susan Wendrow, of the Office of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, are shown examining an idol thought to date back possibly 1,000 years before the birth of Christ. Owned by Carney, the idol was found some 30 years ago in a house on Washington Avenue, Kingston. In the interests of Ulster County's rich heritage, Carney has offered to donate the idol—regardless of its value—to a proposed museum containing County artifacts to be located adjacent to the famed old bridge. The idol will be on display at Shults Paint Store, 37 North Front Street. Anyone wishing to donate Indian relics toward the museum is urged to bring them to the paint store. Eldest Son of Nippon Family Cuts Tradition

BROOKVILLE, Kan. (AP) — Kazu Sohma is the eldest son of a Japanese businessman and as such normally would go into his father's business. Instead, he became an apprentice cowboy.

"I'm the black sheep of my family," he said Wednesday. "They gave up on me."

Sohma, 26 and unmarried, wants to return to Japan and become a rancher. He already has 200 acres and 35 head of cattle on Hokkaido, Japan's northern island.

The climate of Hokkaido, he said, is good for cattle. The winters are severe, but pasturage is abundant business of plentiful moisture.

Sohma is apprenticing on the CK Ranch near Brookville, in central Kansas, 190 miles west of Kansas City, working for experience and his keep.

"He's very good help," said Jack Vanier, president of the ranch company, "very eager to learn."

He had gone into one of his father's business enterprises after schooling in the United States. Then in 1964 a livestock show came to Tokyo.

"I went out to look at those cattle and got all interested," he said. He talked his father, Yasutane Sohma, into letting him add cattle raising to the family's investments. Sohma returned to the United States last September, studied artificial insemination and cattle grooming at Kansas City, and three weeks ago came to the CK Ranch.

Reynolds Invites GE, Union to Talks in N. Y.

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)— Company and union representatives have been invited to a meeting today in New York City in an effort to end a strike at the General Electric Co. plant here, a top federal official says.

Under Secretary of Labor James Reynolds said Wednesday night he had asked leaders of Local 301, International Union of Electrical Workers, AFL - CIO, and GE to meet with him at the Lexington Hotel.

Reynolds is a former vice president of Alco Products in Schenectady.

John Shambo, business agent of the union, said he would attend.

A GE spokesman said, however, company officials had not received Reynolds telegram invitation and thus were not in a position to say whether they would attend.

The spokesman said the company was "willing to engage" in talks aimed at settling the strike.

The sopkesman said the company has been on strike over what union officials have described as local issues.

About 12,000 members of Local 301 and several smaller unions have been on strike over what union officials have described as local issues.

Cites Airmail Service

Test Indicates Post Office Performance Is Efficient

By HAL COOPER

NEW YORK (AP) — A recent test of the U.S. postal service showed a generally efficient performance on first-class mail deliveries throughout the nation.

Letters airmailed between two points in different states, including coast to coast, stood better than a 99 per cent chance of reaching their destinations within two days.

Both Arrived

Duplicate mailing — one Zip-coded and one to the same address without the Zip code — arrived simultaneously in every case.

The bulk of the airmail between major east coast cities and major cities of the far west was delivered the day after posting. Airmail from the east coast made it to Juneau, Alaska, in two days.

In point of elapsed time between posting and delivery, the poorest performance was by two airmail letters from San Francisco to Miami and from Los Angeles to Bryn Mawr, Pa., a Philadelphia suburb. Each took four days. Los Angeles to Juneau, and Seattle, Wash., to Juneau, took three. All the other test airmail was delivered in two days.

Began Nov. 17

The Associated Press began the test on Nov. 17. That morning, major bureaus posted more than 500 letters either to other AP bureaus or to suburban addresses of staff members in other cities.

Coincidentally the postal service, alerted by a massive mail jam in Chicago in October, had begun hiring the first of 150,000 temporary Christmas workers a month early, using $30 million of funds previously budgeted for expenditure later in the fiscal year.

As of Dec. 6, said a post office spokesman in Washington, all mail jams had been overcome.

The spokesman attributed the improvement mainly to a new system of daily reports to Washington from 74 major post offices, the points of origin of 48.9 per cent of the nation's mail. On the basis of these reports, the Postal Bureau of Operations is able to head off mail pileups.

Cincinnati, Ohio, has more than 1,800 industrial plants.

CHOCOLATE WALNUT steamed pudding—Yule tradition.

Steamed Pudding Is Traditional

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Steamed Christmas puddings are an old, old tradition. If you happen to be a little tired of quickie desserts and would welcome something not so go-go and not so instant, especially for the gala family Christmas dinner, you'll enjoy this Chocolate Walnut Steamed Pudding.

Incidentally, just to refresh your coffee memory: For a flavorful brew, use one approved coffee measure (equal to two level measuring tablespoons) of coffee to each six ounces of cold water, per serving.

CHOCOLATE WALNUT STEAMED PUDDING

½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
3 envelopes no-melt unsweetened chocolate
2 eggs
3⅓ cups sifted cake flour
2 tablespoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon vanilla
1½ cups chopped walnuts
Coffee Ice Cream Sauce.

Cream butter and sugar. Blend in chocolate. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add alternately with milk. Add vanilla. Fold in walnuts. Spoon into well-greased 2-quart pudding mold. Cover mold. Set on rack in large kettle. Add enough boiling water to come half way up mold. Cover kettle. Steam 2 to 2½ hours, depending on depth of mold. Keep water boiling, adding more if necessary. Unmold on serving plate. Serve with Coffee Ice Cream Sauce. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Coffee Ice Cream Sauce

Stir 1 pint coffee ice cream with a fork until soft. Stir in 2 teaspoons rum flavoring and ½-cup well-drained canned crushed pineapple. Or 3 squares (1 oz. each) unsweetened chocolate melted and cooled. Note: 2 tablespoons baking powder is the correct amount.

Will Expect Royalties

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The semiofficial Iraqi press today said that Iraq expects to be paid full royalties by the Iraq Petroleum Co. even though the flow of oil to Mediterranean ports has been cut off.

Despite Cut of Flow

Syrian Foreign Minister Ibrahim Makhos, visiting Baghdad, continued his government's pressure to induce Iraq to nationalize the company's assets following Syrian seizure of the firm's pipelines and other property in Syria.

Depite newspaper hints and Syrian claims of Iraqi support, the Iraq government has yet to make any official statement of its position following the stoppage in the oil flow, now in its third day. Baghdad radio said the Iraqi newspapers not only demanded that the company pay full production royalties but also that it increase production.

"It cannot use excuses to stop implementation of these commitments because the interruption in the oil flow is not a compelling circumstance for stopping payment of royalties," one newspaper said.

The Syrian government demands that the firm pay $10.5 million in additional royalties for Iraqi oil crossing Syria by pipeline during the first nine months of the year. Makhos said in Baghdad that his government would not make the same demands of Iraq if the latter decided to market its oil on its own.

The company pumps 42 million tons of Iraqi oil a year through the pipelines. It also markets 20 million tons by tanker through the Persian Gulf, with most of it going to Europe.

Exam Is Listed For Patrolmen In 3 Villages

An open competitive examination has been called by the Ulster County Civil Service Commission for examination for police patrolmen in various villages of Ulster County. The examination will be held February 18, 1967, and the last date for filing applications is Jan. 18, 1967.

Vacancies exist in three villages in the county, Ellenville where at present four vacancies exist; New Paltz where there are two vacancies and Saugerties where there is one vacancy.

To Use List Elsewhere

Starting salaries are $4,700 in Ellenville, $4,500 in New Paltz and $4,500 to $5,000 in Saugerties.

The eligible list established as a result of this examination will be used to fill police patrolman vacancies as they occur in all Ulster County villages provided the eligible meet the minimum requirements for these positions.

Among the minimum requirements are that the applicant must have been a legal resident of Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, Sullivan, Delaware, Green or Columbia County for at least four months immediately preceding the date of the written examination. Preference may be given to successful candidates who have been legal residents for at least four months immediately preceding the date of the written test of the locality in which the appointment is to be made. Nonresidents may be required to indicate at the time of consideration for appointment whether or not they will become a resident of the locality in accordance with conditions authorized by local law or ordinance.

Age Specifications

Candidates must be not less than 21 years of age and must have not reached their 29th birth day by the date of the written test. Eligibility for examination and appointment will terminate when applicant reached his 29th birthday. Candidates who lack one month or less of the minimum age shall be deemed eligible if otherwise qualified.

In determining whether an applicant or eligible is over the maximum age for examination or appointment, that time spent on duty in the armed forces of the U. S., not to exceed six years, shall not be included.

Applications and complete details may be obtained from the Ulster County Civil Service Commission, UPO Box 172, County Office Building, Kingston.

Andres Belaunde Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Victor Andres Belaunde, Peruvian representative to the United Nations, died Wednesday night on the eve of his 83rd birthday.

Belaunde served as president of the U.N. General Assmbly during the 1959-66 session.

Prior to his election as president, he had been at the United Nations for 14 years, having represented Peru at the San Francisco Conference at which the U.N. Charter was drafted.

Report Africans Refuse to Drop Stand on Force

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — African members of the U.N. Security Council reportedly have refused to drop demands that Britain use force to cut off Rhodesia's oil supply despite Western warnings such demands are doomed to defeat.

Informed sources said Britain has failed to persuade the three African members, Nigeria, Uganda and Mali, to abandon their attempt to draft such an amendment onto the British resolution calling for mandatory sanctions against 12 Rhodesian exports, not including oil.

The amendment introduced this week with the blessings of the 38 African U.N. members demands that Britain "prevent by all means the transport to Southern Rhodesia of oil products."

Lord Caradon of Britain, who spent most of Wednesday in consultation with the African council members, was said to have pointed out that Britain would have to throw a naval blockade around all of Southern Africa to enforce such a ban.

"The whole idea is unrealistic," said a source close to the British delegation. "Even if Britain had the warships available for such a massive blockade, she would refuse to take a step certain to bring her into direct confrontation with South Africa and Portugal."

South Africa, which has been supplying much of Rhodesia's oil since Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith declared independence 13 months ago, is Britain's fourth biggest trading partner.

Red Physicist Dies

MOSCOW (AP) — Isaak Y. Pomeranchuk, 53, a leading Soviet theoretical physicist, died Wednesday, the Soviet press reported today. The cause of death was not announced.

Pomeranchuk worked on the physics of low temperatures, the theory of irradiation and cosmic rays. In 1950 he won the Stalin Prize.

Uruguay is a little larger than the state of Missouri.

No Pure Water

Fined $126,000 By Federal Court In Antitrust Suit

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Fines totaling $126,000 were levied in Federal Court Wednesday against the nation's two largest optical firms and two of their officials, all of whom had pleaded no contest in October to charges of criminal violations of the antitrust laws.

Fined by Judge Edward T. Gignoux of Portland, Me., were American Optical Co., Southbrdge, Mass., $60,000, and Victor D. Kniss, executive vice president, $12,500, Bausch and Lomb, Rochester, N.Y., $45,000, and Alton K. Marsters, executive vice president, $8,500.

Before imposing the fines the judge spoke of the "seriousness" of the charges of conspiring to fix prices of their products attempting to monopolize the industry.

The maximum penalty faced by the firms was $100,000 each and the officers faced fines of $100,000 each in addition of two years in prison. The judge said prison sentences would be "unduly harsh" and probation would "serve no useful purpose."

A federal grand jury in Milwaukee in 1961 returned an indictment against the firms and executives. The indictment charged independent laboratories and manufacturers were prevented from operating in a freely competitive market since the two firms threatened price cutting and practiced price fixing.

Mecca at Yule

Report Future Sale of Dutchess County Farm

A Mid-Hudson Valley Christmas season mecca of thousands of persons attracted by a brilliant Yule display — Trunlan Farm east of Pine Plains, is expected to be sold in the near future.

Dr. Cecilia A. Trunz, owner, has confirmed reports that the sale probably will be consumated early in January. The asking price has been unofficially reported at $450,000.

Dr. Trunz said that the 1966 Christmas display will be turned on as usual this season Saturday night, and will remain open to the public through Jan. 8, 1967 from 5 p. m. until 9:30 or 10 p. m. depending on weather conditions.

The buyer of the farm was not identified but it is reported he is a mid-westerner. Trunlan farm on Winchell Mountain, Town of North East near Millerton, is one of Dutchess County's largest purebred Holstein dairies, with 110 milking cows and a total of 350 animals.

Trunlan farm was established in 1943 by Dr. Trunz's father, the late Maximilian by combining former Austin and Pulver lands. The original house, once a trading post dating back to at least 1823, was replaced by a large, modern home.

The pageantry display is made up of several hundred colored lights and figures highlighted by a Nativity scene.

ESOPUS YULE LIGHTS—Members of the Town of Esopus Businessmen's organization throw the switch Wednesday for the annual holiday lighting in Port Ewen. Participating in the ceremony are Joseph F. Brown, lighting co-chairman, William Yesse Sr., vice president, and the Rev. Cecil L. McFarland, chairman of the lighting committee. Others who worked on the installation are Charles Montafia, Richard Williams, West Hayes, John Potter Jr. and Richard Nadel. John Spinnenweber, installed the service and final connections. The festive decorations have been sponsored by the businessmen's group for the past several years. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr)

Forsee Changes In Rank of Aides At White House

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The resignation of Bill D. Moyers as White House press secretary will lead to changes in the ranking of White House aides and mark the end of a gradual 100 per cent turnover in top White House staff jobs.

Moyers, leaving Feb. 1 to become publisher of the Long Island newpaper Newsday, was regarded at one time as the most powerful and influential of presidential aides. He sometimes was referred to as being "first among equals."

Ranked High

With his departure, three other special assistants — all getting salaries of $30,000 a year — seem almost certain to be ranked as the "big three of the White House staff. They are W. Marvin Watson, Joseph A. Califano Jr. and Walt W. Rostow.

Another high-rated special assistant, and the most recent addition to that elite roster, is Robert E Kintner, former preident of the National Broadcasting Co.

In time, Watson, Califano or Kintner could emerge as a new "first among equals." Rostow hardly could be expected to figure in any such competition because he is a specialist in foreign affairs — too narrow a base on which to build a position of pre-eminence.

Watson is physically closest to the President. Occupying an adjoining office, he is appointments secretary and resident specialist in political matters.

Has Major Hand

Califano, a young man who once was troubleshooter for Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, often plays the same role for Johnson. He also has a major hand in shaping new legislation.

Rostow, a State Department graduate, is Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs. He occupies the desk and does the work of McGeorge Bundy, who resigned last February to become president of the Ford Foundation. In announcing Rostow's appointment, Johnson insisted he was not a replacement for Bundy.

Kintner handles many administrative and housekeeping matters for the President, acts as Cabinet secretary and recently became coordinator of speechwriting, which had been a Moyers task.

None of the special assistants Johnson inherited from President John F. Kennedy is still on the payroll.

Succeeding Moyers as press secretary will be George Christian, 39, a Johnson aide who had been press secretary for two Democratic governors of Texas.

Governor's View

Think Tax Hike Would Put Off Share for States

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP)—A majority of the nation's governors willing to state an opinion believe that a tax increase to finance the Vietnam war would eliminate any state - sharing of federal revenues.

Gov William M. Guy, North Dakota Democrat who heads the National Governors' Conference opening here today, conceded in an interview he does not expect the tax-sharing plan to go into effect until the Vietnam war, with its drain on the national budget, is ended.

This governors' interim conference, at a summer resort hotel, was called primarily on the insistence of Michigan Gov. George W. Romney. He said he had not been able to report fully at last July's governors' meeting in Los Angeles on his special committee's investigation of possible sharing of federal tax collections with states and local communities.

As a potential candidate for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, Romney is suspected in some quarters of having a political gimmick going for him in this tax-sharing business.

An Associated Press canvass of the governors in advance of this meeting indicated many of those willing to respond felt that an increase in taxes to pay for the Vietnam war was almost inevitable.

Mental Health Of GI's Termed Good in Vietnam

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

DI AN, Vietnam (AP) — The mental health of American soldiers in Vietnam is better than civilians back home enjoy.

That's the opinion of Capt. Jimmie R. Clemons, psychiatrist of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division. The Dallas, Tex., doctor says he has found a much lower rate of seriously sick or psychotic people among the GIs—despite the threat of death or maiming, plus lineliness or boredom—than in the general population of the United States.

About 1 Per Cent

Clemons sees about 100 patients a month from among the division's 16,000 men. Most of them show up at his cubbyhole hospital office with minor emotional problem, some of them for follow-up interviews. That is less than one per cent.

Among his monthly callers "only two or three are psychotic, a much lower proportion than you see in stateside practice."

The soldiers, of course, are not typical of the general U.S. population. Most are young. They are usually buoyed by good morale. And when they falter emotionally, they receive prompt attention, on the scene.

Both psychiatry and the U.S. Army's attitude toward emotional and psychiatric ailments have progressed far since World War I, when soldiers who broke up were called victims of shell shock.

In World War II another name was battle fatigue. Late in that war, psychiatrists began realizing and correcting a mistake.

The mistake was to take men with psychiatric problems out of their units, at the front or elsewhere, and send them to rear area hospitals. That, Clemons said, broke a familiar tie and began a divorce.

World War II taught that the farther the soldier was sent back for treatment, the less likely he was to return to duty.

By the time of Korea, psychiatrists were treating men as close as possible to the physical scene of their troubles.

That policy is being continued in Vietnam. Medical companies have enlisted men especially trained in social work who can spot emotional symptoms and begin early first aid.

Soldiers, like others, often find it embarrassing to be referred to a psychiatrist. The stigma that "having to see the head shrinker means you're nuts" is still strong, Clemons said.

"There's still resistance to admitting that one's emotions can become tied up just as can a stomach," he observed.

"But if we handle a man's problems right here, he gets to feel that he's not so sick after all. And when we send him back to his unit, he feels that whatever was wrong with him mustn't have been too bad."

Turkeys May Cost More for Yule

NEW YORK AP) — Turkey for Christmas dinner may cost you more than it did for Thanksgiving.

A major supermarket chain in the New York area is advertising turkey this week for 38 to 47 cents a pound — a price expected to hold through the holidays. For Thanksgiving, they were up to 39 cents a pound.

There were more turkeys this year, but more found their way into market last summer when shoppers were looking for alternatives to high-priced beef and pork.

Now there are larger supplies of beef and pork, and those prices are dropping in most areas. One exception is the West Coast.

While one New York chain has cut pork chops 34 cents to 75 cents a pound and is having a weekend special on pork loins, pork loins are up 1 to 5 cents a pound on the West Coast.

Another New York chain is having a carload beef special, with sirloin steaks for 95 cents a pound and roasts for 89. Choice beef cuts are up 1 to 2 cents a pound in California.

Lamb and veal are being featured in northeastern markets this week along with pork and beef, but in the Pacific Northwest lamb and veal are higher.

Ham may be on special in the Southeast, but up 2 to 4 cents a pound in California.

One place Californians may look for a little relief for their pocketbooks is eggs. They are down 1 to 2 cents a dozen in San Francisco this week — but up slightly in the Seattle area. Egg prices in the rest of the country have been dropping for weeks.

Schedule Third Sparky's Session For Saturday

The third Fall session meeting of Sparky's Fire Department will be held in the Hurley Fire Hall Saturday at 10 a. m.

In conjunction with the National Fire Protection Association, Hurley Volunteer Fire Department 1 has sponsored the local Sparky's Fire Department for the past five years. It is the feeling of HVFC 1 that, in agreement with the philosophy of NFPA, an active Sparky's Fire Department is the best, and most effective way to present the fire prevention message to all children.

Hurley's Sparky Fire Department is open to all children in grades 1-4 who reside in Hurley Fire District 1. At the present time, membership numbers 85 children, of whom approximately 35 are new 1966-67 members. It is intended that notices of all meetings will be sent to local schools, including parochial schools.

Saturday's meeting will combine business with pleasure. The business portion will include four short films, covering topics of fire prevention and rescue, and a short address concerning fire safety at Christmastime. Following will be the annual Sparky Fire Department Christmas party. Co-chairmen Earle McLane and Richard Ruth have requested that all Sparky Fire Department members wear their badges. Refreshments will be offered and Sparky will visit the meeting.

On Saturday at 7 p. m., Hurley Volunteer Fire Company 1 will offer another "Saturday Nite at the Movies." The film will be "Flipper", in color, together with cartoons. In addition, there will be a showing of two short films, appropriate to the season, and donated by the American Red Cross.

At both Sparky's Fire Department meeting and the Saturday Nite Movies, Hurley firemen will be in attendance to assure the safety of the children. An open invitation is extended to all interested parents to attend and to participate in these civic programs.

Teamsters Told To Return After Display of Anger

DETROIT (AP) — Rebellious rank - and - file Teamsters curtailed transport in this Midwest commerce hub today in a display of support for their leader, James R. Hoffa, and anger at the Supreme Court decision that may send him to jail.

But Hoffa hurriedly acted to cut short the 24-hour walkout of truck drivers. Teamsters officials said, by calling for a mass "back-to-work" rally at 10 a.m. EST in Detroit's Cobo Arena.

The Teamsters chief was scheduled to fly to Detroit from Chicago after Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh appealed by telephone and telegram for Hoffa to intercede.

Cavanagh had warned Hoffa, who was in Chicago on union business, that the proposed day-long refusal to work would cripple Detroit. Some 45,000 Teamsters work in and around the Motor City.

By daybreak, hundreds of Teamsters drivers failed to report for work in the Detroit area.

Think Viet Reds Purposely Avoid Major Battles

DA NANG, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. officers in South Vietnam's 1st Corps area believe that Communist troops — so elusive in recent weeks — are purposely avoiding major battles to work on limited objectives during the winter rainy season.

For almost two months, Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops known to operate in the five northernmost provinces of South Vietnam have avoided large-scale clashes with Allied troops.

Instead, the Communists have resorted to guerrilla hit-and-run attacks, mostly at night. Frequently the raiders get away with only light casualties, and sometimes they suffer no losses.

297 Were X-rayed In Local Schools

Final results of X-raying at Saugerties Central Schools have been released.

The School X-ray Program was organized by the TB-RD Christmas Seal group in cooperation with the Ulster County Department of Health.

All results of the program in county schools now have been reported by the TB Association which showed that of the original X-raying done on Sept. 15 at Saugerties, 297 persons were X-rayed.

The total program, which is county-wide, was made possible by the TB Association in conjunction with all schools in Ulster County as a major program to protect Ulster County youth from TB. The X-ray program and scheduling was organized and directed by E. Robert Johnson, TB Association executive director, who developed the project in Saugerties with Mae Evans, Director of Pupil Personnel and Health Services. The program was approved by Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, Superintendent of Schools. In clearing locations, George Hamaty, principal of the High School; Robert Moser, Junior High School principal; and Ernest Blake, principal of Mt. Marion Elementary School, worked with Johnson. The program represents the county's first X-ray program on the school level since 1963.

Two Locations

Saugerties School X-ray Unit was located at the Junior- Senior High School and at Mt. Marion School, and 297 faculty, staff and bus drivers were X-rayed. At the two locations, volunteers who assisted at the X-ray site were: The Rev. George Wood, TB Association board member; the Misses Almena Porter, RN, and Mabel Robinson, RN, and Mrs. Marie V. D. Johnson, TB-RD Association Program volunteers, and Johnson.

"By this shared-cost program, the Ulster County TB and Health Association has taken positive steps to help protect our youth against TB infection," Johnson said.

Of the 297 total staff X-rayed at the schools, Johnson reported that readings now indicate nine were of some form of abnormality; 288 was normal, and one other special X-ray at the site also was done.

Annual Service

The County TB Christmas Seal Association has taken positive steps to develop this program and will provide it as an annual School Health Service. Each school payed a part of the cost of each X-ray. Ulster County people also have helped inasmuch as their Christmas Seal dollars covered the full balance of X-ray plate cost, reading expense and all program expenditure through the Association's Christmas Seal Health Program Fund.

Now a reality, the School X-ray Program is based on the serious recommendations of the National Tuberculosis Association and the United States Surgeon-General's TB Task Force Report for providing protection to school age youth by screening the adult school staff around them.

Also supporting the TB Association's School X-ray Program was Mrs. Addison Burch, Mt. Marion Park, Christmas Seal and program chairman serving the Saugerties area.

TO THE TAXPAYERS OF THE CENTERVILLE FIRE DISTRICT

In response to recent articles appearing in the local newspapers, the Fire Commissioners hereby answer the questions in the minds of the taxpayers.

We believe that two trucks with 750 gallons of water on each for a total of 1,500 gallons is better for our district than one truck with only 1,000 gallons of water.

Also, we believe that two trucks will give you as taxpayers better coverage, greater flexibility for the fire protection of your homes and the lives of your loved ones.

We also believe that with these two trucks better coverage will be given by the fact that we are buying two trucks at a price which will save money for the taxpayers. The cost of one truck which was recommended by the Centerville Fire Co. will be in the neighborhood of $27,500 to $30,000 as compared to buying two trucks at the cost of $41,850. We are proposing to buy modern, adequate equipment, minus the frills that will not put out fires any better.

In answer to the other materials that are missing, we as commissioners feel that the motor being a diesal engine is more than adequate, the pre-connected hose lines are not very practical, and the protective clothing will be furnished independently.

We feel that by giving both fire companies one new fire truck each, we will increase the fire protection of the area by at least 100% or more, than by giving one company one truck and only one truck.

In view of the recent and rapid expansion of the Centerville Fire District we as your elected Commissioners feel that we need two trucks more than one truck.

In closing, this open letter to you as taxpayers, we want to remind you that it is your life, your property, and your loved ones that we want to protect. Your right to vote and to see that these people have the best in protection is yours and yours alone.

So we say go to the polls and show the Fire District Officials what you want.

Voting will be on Thursday, December 15, 1966 at the Centerville Fire Co. between the hours of 6:00 p. m. and 10:00 p. m. Come out and have your ballot counted.

Signed

Milton Firms Cited by Court, Evaded Wage Law

U. S. District Court has granted the Department of Labor a court order permanently enjoining two Milton firms from violating sections of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act, better known as the Federal Wage and Hour Law.

According to Frank B. Mersurio, regional director of the labor department's Wage-Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, Royal Container Corporation and Red's Package Inc., both of Milton and both operated by Anthony Prezziosi, were ordered by the court to halt failure to pay overtime. The firms manufacture and sell containers.

According to the law, certain employes engaged in work related to interstate commerce must be paid not less than $1.25 per hour and must receive time-and-one-half for overtime work.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

A small box containing a withered ear once helped cause a war, according to The World Almanac. In 1739, Capt. Jenkins testified before the British House of Commons that the box held his ear, which he said the Spanish had cut off while he was their prisoner. To a sensitive Parliament, the incident was the final indignity suffered at the hands of the Spanish. So, with banners flying and bells ringing, England plunged into the War of Jenkins' Ear.

Disclose Record $34½ Million in 1966 Heart Drive

A total of more than $34½ million, the largest amount ever contributed in a single year, was raised by the 1966 Heart Fund, it was announced today by the American Heart Association. This represents an increase, of more than $2 million over the previous record of $32,544,636 donated in 1965. Of this amount, $68,459.91 was contributed by citizens of Columbia, Greene and Ulster Counties.

Owen R. Cheatham, chairman of Georgia-Pacific Corporation and 1966 national campaign chairman, said the new record of $34,613,822 reflects "the growing public confidence that cardiovascular diseases—the nation's Number One killer — can be brought under control.

"In the 18 years of the Heart Fund's existence, we have actually gained ground in this fight," Cheatham said, citing the seven per cent drop since 1950 in the cardiovascular death rate among middle-aged men.

The Heart Fund campaign supports cardiovascular research, education and community programs conducted by the Heart Association and its affiliates through the country. The campaign is conducted nationwide each February, which is proclaimed "American Heart Month" by the President of the United States.

The 1966 campaign figures released today show that 11 of the 55 affiliates raised over $1 million each, and that nationwide increases were obtained from all segments of the population.

Canvass of Vote Expect Official To Favor Demos

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The official canvass of last month's election was expected today to confirm the Democrats' control of the State Constitutional Convention and award the Conservative party third place in the race for governor.

Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz called the State Board of Canvassers to a noon meeting to certify the results of the Nov. 8 balloting.

The other members of the board are the Republican and Democratic leaders of the Legislature.

Earlier this week, informed sources reported the official tally of votes would give the Democrats 87 of the 171 convention delegates elected from State Senate districts and 13 of the 15 elected at-large.

The remainder were won by Republicans, including two at - large delegates who had Conservative party endorsement.

In a surprise development, the Conservative party's gubernatorial candidate, Paul L. Adams, was reported to have polled about 3,000 votes more than the Liberal party nominee, Franklin D. Roosevelt. Both, however, ran well behind the winner, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, and Democrat Frank D. O'Connor.

The chief significance of the Conservative party showing is that the party automatically will be awarded the third line on the next election ballot, moving up from row D to supplant the Liberals in row C. Party leaders attach great prestige to the relative ranking on the ballot.

Republicans, by winning the will retain possession of row A, with Democrats continuing on row B.

Besides confirming the outcome of the contest for governor and the constitutional convention, the board of canvassers was to report the official vote for state comptroller and attorney general and the vote on the 10 constitutional amendments and the proposition that appeared on the ballot.

Muscular Dystrophy

Woodstock, N. Y.
Dec. 14, 1966

Editor, The Freeman:

The officers and directors of the Ulster County Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy feel that they are fighting a losing battle. The month of November has always been MD month nationally and locally as it was this year. However, other local organizations have seen fit to run their drives for several months this year to reach their goal.

The Ulster County Chapter of MD did take part in the Jerry Lewis holiday Telethon and raised $5,555 and in November during our annual drive month, we raised $2,485. At this point, we are short $4,960 to meet our $13,000 goal. The 13 crippled children in our area will pay for this in shortened therapy, no crutches, etc.

However, in as much as the holiday season is upon us and we do not wish to deprive another charity of its rightful time, the officers and board of the Ulster Area Chapter do hereby declare their 1966 drive ended.

After the 1965 drive and befor the 1966 drive, the area lost an MD child. God forbid it be your child next. It was our intent to meet our goal with hope for every other local child who is afflicted with MD, but we won't fight organizations who feel they have to meet their goal by doing anything or taking all the time they wish.

The one and final plea, since the official drive is over for MD, is if any person or family who hasn't made a donation would send only $1 today to the John Collins Memorial MD Fund, care of the Rondout National Bank, Woodstock, N. Y. 12498, just maybe our goal could be reached and maybe your dollar would save one of our local kids. Please give hope to these kinds and the volunteers who are fighting for them. Hope for the holiday, hope that they can enjoy Christmas next year. They all won't be here as thing stand now. You'll be glad you helped, and God bless those who do.

Our children will bless you, too.

Sincerely,
Officers and Directors of the Ulster Area Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy

Musical Groups To Entertain at Kingston Savings

The Lyric Choristers and the Mendelssohn Club of Kingston will participate in a program of Christmas and other vocal music in the lobby of The Kingston Savings Bank, 273 Wall Street, on Friday between 6:45 and 8 p. m.

The Mendelssohn Club, one of the oldest and most respected men's choruses in the Hudson Valley, was organized in 1903 and has been continuously active for nearly 64 years. Albert G. Hunter, Jr., of Poughkeepsie is the director. Brian Steeves, a music teacher at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School in Kingston, is the assistant director and will direct the chorus at the Kingston Savings Bank concert. Mrs. William E. Rylance is the accompanist.

The Lyric Choristers, a mixed group, is now in its 10th year. Director is J. Paul Whitten, and accompanist, Mrs. Margaret Schwarz. The group presents concerts annually at the George Washington School to raise funds to present a scholarship each year to a high school senior who desires to continue his education in music.

Both groups draw their membership from a wide area around Kingston, and invite inquiries about new memberships.

Each group plans to sing its own program numbers separately, and then may join as one combined chorus on several familiar Christmas carols.

The bank lobby will be open to the public during the concert, and Bank President Lloyd R. LeFever has extended an invitation to the public to attend.

Christmas in Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) —The Cuban revolution is edging into the Christmas season. Havana radio, monitored here, is caroling the Castro revolution's birth instead of the birth of Christ.

"Bells are ringing in cities and countryside for the birth of freedom," runs one lyric complete with a Latin beat.

Another radio carol proclaims: "Cubans, you are progressing with dignity. Glory to liberty's dawn."

The word umbrella comes froma a Latin word meaning little shadow.

Conservative Party Emerges As Potent Force in '66 Vote

ALBANY, N. Y. AP) — The Conservative Party has emerged from the 1966 election as an increasingly potent force that New York Republicans eventually are going to have to reckon with.

The party's surprisingly strong showing in the Nov. 8 balloting, as indicated by today's official canvass of the voting, elevated the spirits of Conservative leaders.

At the same time, it set the GOP hierarchy to pondering some sober second thoughts.

Few political observers had expected that the Conservatives, running a virtually unknown candidate, Paul L. Adams, would outpoll the Liberal party's glamorous Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. in the four-way race for governor.

The payoff not only was enormously increased prestige for the fledgling political party but also the right to move up a row on the next statewide election ballot — from row D to row C, supplanting the Liberals.

With Republicans occupying row A and Democrats row B, the Conservatives now will take their place as the third-ranking political party in this state.

Makes Progress

This is considerable progress for a party formed only four years ago as a coalition of conservative - minded Republicans plus some like-minded Democrats — who took particular exception to what they regarded as the excessive liberalism of such Republicans as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

Initially, the GOP tried to ignore the Conservatives, dismissing them as a hostile, ineffective and incompatible splinter element.

But Republicans were startled — taken completely by surprise — when the Conservatives rolled up a half million votes for their gubernatorial candidate.

They were discomforted also by the discovery that six GOP candidates for the Assembly apparently would not have been elected without votes they received on the Conservative line.

Try to Minimize

The instinctive Republican reaction thus far has been to attempt to minimize the Conservative showing. GOP State chairman Carl Spad calls it a "happenstance."

"Most of the votes they got were protest votes against Governor Rockefeller," he maintained. "If they could do this well the next time around—and I rather doubt it — that would be a different story."

In almost the same breath, however, Spad indicated that he already has begun to take the Conservatives more seriously. He no longer dismisses, out of hand, as GOP leaders once did, the prospect that Republicans and Conservatives one day might form a working accommodation, as the Democrats and Liberals have done in the past.

"The fact is," he said, "that there are many planks in the Conservative program that really are good, solid Republican program ideas. We're not that far apart on essential issues."

Signs of a developing Republican - Conservative rapprochement actually manifested themselves before the election. Eleven GOP candidates for the State Senate, 31 for the Assembly and 8 for Congress accepted Conservative endorsements.

This would have been an unforgiveable sin a few years ago, when the GOP was trying to ignore the Conservatives right out of business. But it was perfectly acceptable conduct this year.

Moreover, the Republicans allowed three of their candidates for delegate - at-large to the Constitutional Convention to accept Conservative backing. Two of them were elected because of it.

"We received word through an intermediary that it was all right to deal with the delegate candidates on an individual basis," a Conservative Party spokesman recalled. "We were told that they were free to do as they chose."

"We found this highly interesting," he added with obvious relish.

Defense Warned In Singer Trial On Brink Charge

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—The defense for Joel Singer, 23, of Montreal, accused of participating in a $400,000 burglary of a Brink's Co. office here, moved into its second day today.

Dante M. Scaccia, Singer's attorney, drew several warnings Wednesday from Onondaga County Judge Ormand N. Gale during questioning of the prosecuting attorney, Assistant Dist. Atty. Edward F. Gerber.

Gale told Scaccia that the questioning was not within the "scope of evidence" when Scaccia asked Gerber: "And don't you now admit you have a slim chance of winning this case?"

The trial, before a jury of seven men and five women, is in its fifth week.

Singer is charged with first-degree grand larceny and third-degree burglary in the Oct. 23, 1965 break, in which a anti-tank cannon was used to blast open a vault.

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Ten families will be sheltered in mobile homes until their houses are free of deadly carbon monoxide gas being emitted from an underground mine fire.

A city spokesman said Wednesday the General Acceptance Corp. of Allentown has provided ten mobile homes, which will be stationed in a trailer park in the Taylor Hill area.

The mobile homes arrived Wednesday from Allentown.

Fifty-five families have left their homes in the Cedar Avenue section because of the gas. The total includes five families that evacuated their homes Tuesday night because of gas seepage.

They had earlier returned in the belief the dwellings were free of gas.

Efforts continue, meanwhile, to extinguish the fire which has been burning underground for several years. Drilling teams are trying to determine the fires perimeter.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Telltale signs of volcanic violence on the moon are shown in a photograph taken Nov. 25 by Lunar Orbiter 2 and released Wednesday by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The picture covers an area about as big as Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

In it an array of lunar domes are shown in detail for the first time. Many are quite rough and show cracks and pits at or near their summits. These features are similar to the volcanic domes of Northern California.

NASA said, "They are interpreted to be the result of upward movement of magma which has warped the overlying rock and in some cases spilled out on the surface as lava."

This confirms, NASA said, "that the moon has had a long and complicated history of volcanic activity."

The domes are to be distinguished from other, roundish features of the lunarscape, which are craters believed formed by the impact of meteorites. Shown in the upper right is the crater Marius, older than the volcanic domes. It is about 25 miles across and a mile deep.

Soviets Use U. S. Theme to Hike Defense Budget

MOSCOW (AP) — Accusing the United States of "criminal aggression in Vietnam," the Soviet government today announced an increase in its defense spending for 1967 of 1.1 billion rubles — $1.22 billion at the official exchange rate — or 8 per cent more than the 1966 figure.

Finance Miniter Vasily F. Garbuzov announced a defense budget next year of 14.5 billion rubles. The announced figure for 1966 was 13.4 billion rubles.

Western experts believe the announced defense spending figure is only about half the total Soviet defense expenditure in any one year, and that the rest of the military funds are hidden in other parts of the budget.

Addressing the Supreme Soviet, the Soviet Union's rubber-stamp Parliament, Garbuzov blamed what he called the aggressive actions of U.S. imperialist circles for the defense boost. He said that due to U.S. policy "the international situation is aggravated and the danger of a new war is increased."

"The Soviet Union, devoted to its international duty, rendered and will render all-around support to the heroic Vietnamese people fighting for their freedom and independence," he added.

He did not mention Red China. Informed sources here believe, however, that China has become a major concern of Soviet military men and one reason for greater defense spending.

The government also issued a statement denouncing the United States for "fanning up the flames of the aggressive war against the Vietnamese people."

Referring to Communist charges that U.S. planes bombed Hanoi, North Vietnam's capital, Tuesday and Wednesday, the government said "these new crimes cause further aggravation of the international situation."

Nothing Will Help

"If those who shape the U.S. policy had shown common sense," the statement continued, "they would realize that nothing will help the U.S. military break the will of the courageous Vietnamese people for freedom and independence."

In conclusion, the statement said: "The United States government, which aims at further expansion of the war in Vietnam, should not forget the warning served by the Socialist states at the Bucharest conference early in July."

At that conference, the Warsaw Pact powers agreed to send volunteers to Vietnam if Hanoi asked for them, and pledged "growing and many-sided moral and political support" for North Vietnam, including defensive weapons and economic aid.

The statement in general followed the form of similar ones issued in the past two years when there were new developments in the Vietnamese conflict.

Santa Planning Esopus Visit Sat. Despite Schedule

A letter postmarked the North Pole today revealed plans by Santa Claus to visit the Town of Esopus on a schedule arranged by the Esopus Lions Club. In accepting the invitation, Santa cited a "tight schedule" and said he would be available Saturday, touching down only at Post Offices in the town.

He did note that, due to the fact his reindeers are "resting" before their legendary Dec. 25 journey, he would arrive in a van instead of his distinctive sleigh. The sleigh, Santa added, is partially packed for the overnight trip later this month.

Expressing their gratitude for the bearded gentleman's acceptance, Lions Club members said the schedule will include Connelly Post Office at 10:30 a. m.; Cliff Every's farm, New Salem, at 11 o'clock; St. Remy Post Office at 11:30; Rifton Post Office at noon; Union Center Firehouse at 1 p. m.; Ulster Park Grange at 1:30; Esopus Post Office at 2 p. m.; West Park Post Office at 2:15; and Port Ewen Post Office at 3 p. m.

Publishers Cool On Romney Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DETROIT (AP) — One of eight newspaper publishers interviewed in an informal poll has come out in favor of Gov. George Romney of Michigan as the 1968 Republican presidential candidate.

The other seven, polled by the Detroit Free Press, expressed varying attitudes towards Romney. The publishers are part of a group attending meetings here with the Big Three automakers — Ford, General Motors and Chrysler.

David Bradley of the St. Joseph (Mo.) News-Press & Gazette, indicated Romney should be the GOP nominee, but said he "has a long way to go to project his image."

James Righter, publisher of the Buffalo (N.Y.) Evening News, said he could support Romney if nominated. He said New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is a potential candidate. Righter supported Rockefeller for re-election in New York.

"Romney shouldn't become too involved in the Goldwater aspects of the Republican party," Righter added.

You get about 36.2 miles a gallon on the new Renault 10. With automatic, it drops all the way to 35.7.

The Renault 10 is the new Renault 8. Longer. And better-looking. But essentially the same car that the editors of Road Test magazine picked over the Volkswagen in an 11-page comparison report published in March. It's got an optional automatic transmission that doesn't cut gas mileage or power. You have to drive it to believe it. Why not call your Renault dealer and set up a test drive now?

Check Two Blazes

Local firemen checked two fires Wednesday afternoon. A call at 2:40 p. m. was for a blaze under a second-story flooring in the two-story, brick building housing the Modjeska Sign Studios Inc., 40 Thomas Street. Firemen said it had apparently started from a cigarette. Units from Central and Wiltwyck stations and the Wicks Company responded with Deputy Chief Glen M. Southard in charge. A call at 4:47 p. m. was for a blaze in a pile of rubble in the downtown urban renewal area where buildings are being razed. The fire was at East Union and Chambers Street and was doused by Cornell Station firemen with a hydrant stream. Pressurized water was used on the first fire.

The cost of living in the United States may be going up, but it's still far from being the problem Soviet citizens face in making ends meet. Basing a study on estimated 1966 gross hourly earnings of manufacturing employes in New York and Moscow, the National Industrial Conference Board found that the Muscovite must put in from two to more than 15 times as much time on the job as the New Yorker to pay for basic necessities.

Textbook-Type Rescue Returns Downed Pilot

SAIGON (AP) — Two U.S. Airforce skyraiders and a helicopter made a "text book rescue—of the pilot of an F105 Thunderchief jet whose plane was shot down over North Vietnam by a Mig 21 Wednesday, the air force reported.

The pilot, whose name was not made public, had completed a raid on the Yen Vien railroad yard six miles northeast of Hanoi when his plane was disabled by the Communist jet. He bailed out and landed in thick jungle 300 yards from a large village and about 50 miles southwest of the communist capital.

Pilots of the two, prop-driven skyraiders—Capts. Anthony J. Bartalo, 35, of Caledonia, N.Y., and William D. Fuehlow, of El Paso, Tex—drove back enemy troops trying to capture the downed pilot.

"We arrived in the area about 19 minutes after he went down and managed to get the "Jolly Green" rescue chopper in about an hour later," Bartalo said.

The rescue helicopter, commanded by Capt. James A. Hartwig, 30, of Hutchinson, Minn., "hovered, and picked him up in less than five minutes," Bartalo added.

Hartwig said his mechanic and paramedic spotted the downed pilot's smoke flare and "we picked him up without any incident. It went according to the text book."

hints from Heloise

Dear Folks:

Know those little bulbs that you buy for your night lights

Are you aware that small Christmas tree light bulbs (which are less expensive, too) will fit into those wonderful night lights?

Furthermore, instead of a white bulb (that is usually sold for night lights), you can buy blue ones for the bathroom, baby's room, or even your own bedroom.

I use a red bulb in the night light in my bathroom!

I also put one in the electric outlet behind the bureau as the light itself doesn't show but makes a streak of light along the floor at night.

So why don't you buy some extra Christmas tree lights and try them in your night lights?

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Recently, we bought a wooden salt shaker and have found that the salt does not get moist.

The wood absorbs the moisture and allows the salt to be free-flowing. No corrosion on the wooden shaker either.

Dear Heloise:

I am a crossword puzzle fan . . .

I always had trouble finding something stiff (like a magazine to put the crossword puzzle on to give it support while I was solving it.

Then I got the idea that a piece of stiff cardboard would be just the thing.

Now I just cut the puzzle from the newspaper each day and attack it to the cardboard with a paper clip or two. After completing the puzzle I pull it off the cardboard and discard it.

I keep the cardboard handy for next day's puzzle.

Works just great!

Dear Heloise:

Do you ever light another cigarette when a good one is still burning in the ashtray?

To prevent doing this, I place my pack of cigarettes on the table, back of the ashtray that my burning cigarette is in.

When reaching for a new cigarette I notice the smoke of the one burning and stop! Thus saving a cigarette for the next time.

Dear Heloise:

Now and then a good hint
I think I'll send in,
Only to read in your column
That its already been.
Then I find another one.
So has someone else!
Next time, please Heloise
I'd rather do it my self!

Dear Heloise:

My husband figured out this one for me:

I had a small bottle of perfume for my purse and a large one for use at home.

No need to throw away the purse size container when it is empty — just use an eye dropper to transfer perfume from the large bottle to the small one.

Dear Heloise:

When you serve corn on the cob, melt a stick of butter and place it in a serving bowl with a pastry brush to apply it.

Saves time, mess, and much muttering from a hungry family.

Also saves wasting butter that I usually have to wash off every plate.

Dear Heloise:

I received a roll of scented drawer liner paper that is so popular, and found another cute use for it.

I used mine to wrap a birthday gift, tied it with ribbon to match the design, making it a fragrant and pretty picture.

Kids Want Seat Belts

HANKSVILLE, Utah (AP) — Students at the elementary school here have started a "buckle up for safety" campaign to have seat belts installed in the school bus.

They started a paper and are selling advertisements in this southern Utah town of 100 to raise money to buy the belts.

An editorial in the pupils' Hanksville Herald said, "Seat belts would keep kids in their seats and out of the driver's hair even if there were no accidents."

Collect $684.50 To Date in Drive

Reports to the monthly meeting of Woodstock Fire Co. No. 3 of Lake Hill indicated a total of $684.50 received for the 1966 fund drive a possibility of continuation of the company-sponsored Boy Scout troop; support of the Ladies Auxiliary Christmas party Dec. 17; and two fire calls during the month.

Final reports on the fund drive are due at the Jan. 3 meeting, with indications that the total will exceed $700. Some members have not yet submitted a report.

The search is on for a scoutmaster for Boy Scout Troop 62, sponsored for the past three years by the fire company. The organization hopes to continue the troop and will do so, according to President Walter Stone, if a leader can be found.

Louis Kolbe, a director of the company, reported that the Christmas party for youngsters to the age of 12 who reside in the area served by the company, will be held this Saturday, from 12 noon to 3 p. m. He said Santa Claus will arrive at the party on the company's fire pumper. Children of the community are invited to attend this party, given by the Ladies Auxiliary.

Captain Alfred Ostrander reported two fire calls for the month—both brush fires which were brought under control without damage. He praised work of the fire police of the company in preventing traffic jams at the scene of the fires. He also said work on the second tank truck was progressing and would be continued until the truck could be placed in service.

Nominations for officers to be acted upon at the January meeting were not forthcoming from the nominating committee. The committee, consisting of R. Heinlein, J. Bryce and A. Smith, is expected to give a report prior to the election, said the company president.

Zena Firemen Slate Yule Party for Kids

Plans are now complete for the annual Children's Christmas Party to be held at the Zena Firehouse Saturday at 2 p. m. Volunteer firemen of Woodstock Fire Company No. 4 invite all area children to attend the fete. Entertainment, refreshments and a visit by Santa Claus will highlight the afternoon's activities.

This year's party is under the chairmanship of Robert Kalcinsky, assisted by John Cutler, Stewart DeWitt and William Hung.

Sorensen Rates RFK Lone Strong Leader in State

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)— Sen. Robert F. Kennedy remains the only strong leader in a state Democratic Party that now lacks unity and leadership, Theodore C. Sorensen, former special counsel to President John F. Kennedy, says.

There is no reason why New York should not be one of the strongest Democratic states in the union, Sorensen said Wednesdqay night.

Resnick to Tour Vietnam During New Year Period

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick today announced that he has sufficiently recovered from the back ailment which caused him to cancel his Vietnam trip, and that he now plans to visit Vietnam during the New Year holidays.

Resnick, who was originally scheduled to go to Vietnam during Chanukah and Christmas, has been confined to bed for the last three weeks with a partially slipped disc. According to his medical doctor, he is now able to undertake the trip.

He will depart on Dec. 25, and plans to return to Washington Jan. 8, in time for the opening session of Congress, Jan. 10th. "This will enable me to spend New Year's with the boys," Resnick said.

The Congressman, who made a similar trip last year, will travel at his own expense, and will bring gifts of religious medallions provided by the National Jewish Welfare Board.

He is also bringing tape recorded messages from the people in the district who have loved ones in Vietnam, and will see that they are delivered. He would like to meet as many men from the 28th District as possible, and has requested that persons with relatives in Vietnam call either of his district offices with names and locations of these persons.

Congressman Resnick also is bringing a gift from home that will surprise, and hopefully, delight, many servicemen: salamis. "While I know the Army feeds its men well," the Congressman said. "I thought they would appreciate a little delicacy that they're not likely to find in a field kitchen. Some of the major salami producers have very generously donated over 600 one-pound salamis for me to distribute to our men."

Anyone wishing to send a taped message with the Congressman ma" make the recording on his own and deliver it to either of Resnick's district offices, or he may come to the Congressman's office and use the recording facilities there. Persons desiring to record messages in the Congressman's office are requested to make appointments in advance.

Messages are limited to five minutes and should be written out before recording. The Congressman's Poughkeepsie office is at 70 Market Street. The Congressman's Kingston office is at 2 Pearl Street.

Changes in Rt. 209, 375

William S. Hults, chairman of the New York State Traffic Commission, today announced that a stop sign had been ordered on Queens Highway at its intersection with Route 209. Also in the Town of Woodstock his order prohibited standing on the south side of Route 212 between Route 375 and a point 120 feet west of Route 375.

Executives Wax Confident on Plane Standards

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Mohawk Airline executives say they are confident the company can maintain its aircraft at a level to satisfy pilots despite a strike by the company's 500 mechanics.

A spokesman for the airline offered that comment to The Associated Press Wednesday after a leader of the Mohawk unit of the Airline Pilots Association said the line's 300 pilots would continue to fly "only as long as is consistent" with safety standards.

Bernard Krouk, master and executive - council chairman of the Mohawk branch, said 75 supervisory personnel were taking the place of the 500 mechanics and it was "doubtful that present operations can be continued consistent with approved safety standards for an indefinite period.

An airline spokesman noted that Mohawk had grounded all its piston - driven aircraft and was maintaining about 70 per cent of its regular schedules with jet aircraft. Jets require less maintenance than piston - engine types, the spokesman said. In addition, Federal Aviation Agency inspectors have not turned in a single complaint, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, Daniel Doubleday, Onedia County Airport Commissioner, ruled that pickets would be limited to 14 and defined areas where pickets could assemble at the airport, home base for Mohawk and site of 300 of the 500 mechanics' jobs.

Roy Rogers Jr. Would Rather Be Like John Wayne

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sorry about this, Roy Rogers, but your son and namesake wants to pattern his acting career after John Wayne.

The lad is only beginning to act in films but he knows where he wants to go.

"If I wanted to act like dad, I could. But that would just be an imitation, and I don't want to do that. I'd rather be myself, which is what John Wayne has always done. No matter what the role is, he's still playing John Wayne, and that isn't bad. People like what he is. Some day I hope people might like what I am."

Big Boy

Roy admitted that day may be far off. He is now 20, a muscular 6-foot-3 at 200 pounds, and he's willing to learn. So far his only experience has been in plays at Chatsworth High School in the San Fernando Valley.

"That was enough to make me decide I want to try acting," he said. "But I'm not counting on it entirely. I've taken an examination at a tool and die plant, and I qualified for a job. If the acting doesn't pan out, I'll have something to fall back on."

As you might gather, Roy had a practical upbringing. He was the son of the cowboy star and his first wife, who died as the boy was born. After Rogers married his co-star, Dale Evans, the family grew to nine children.

All Individuals

"But even though there were nine kids at home, none of us lost our individuality," said Roy Jr. "Dad always urged us to be ourselves and develop in our own ways."

Life among the Rogerses was spent mostly on the range — at the ranches in the San Fernando and apple Valleys. All of the kids took turns at riding Trigger; in fact, the famed horse sometimes carried six at a time.

Copper Mine Will Operate Again; Last Used in 1921

TYRONE, N.M. (AP) — This sleeping giant of the century's early copper industry is stirring with the promise of a multimillion-dollar awakening.

Tyrone's orderly array of buildings and its white, moorish-style railroad station were set at the foot of Burro Mountain during a copper boom that started in 1915. It crashed six years later when the price of copper fell.

Phelps - Dodge Corp. abandoned its underground mining opration, but continued to maintain much of the town's buildings, with the help of a few residents who remained in Tyrone. The town has attracted tourists, artists and lens fans through the years.

Now Phelps-Dodge plans to spend more than $100 million to reactivate the town in preparation for an open-pit mining operation. Residents of Grant County are excited about the promise of a new major employer.

The company said that when the mine is in operation, there will be about 1,100 men on the payroll. The resulting demand for trades and services could create thousand of other jobs in the area.

Phelps-Dodge says it will take three to four years to construct facilities and get the mine into full production. There will be the task of bringing water from the nearby Gila River and building railroad track, probably from Separ, near Lordsburg, on the Southern Pacific line. The ore will be shipped to a smelter at Douglas, Ariz.

Phelps-Dodge maintenance of Tyrone included leaving a few dwellings in the crest of a ridge, renting them through the years. A post office has remained in the company's principal building along with offices for the property manager.

The mining property itself has not been allowed to revert to rangeland. Copper leaching operations were carried on during World War II. In the 1950s, the company embarked on an extensive development program, gouging out a network of roads through the red hills, and conducting core-drilling operations that aroused hopes of an early mine reactivation at the time.

4 Ithaca Women To Visit Hanoi To View Bombing

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Four women affiliated with peace organizations left New York City Wednesday night for a two-week visit to Hanoi and other communist North Vietnam areas, the Cornell Daily Sun reported today.

One said she planned to view damage caused by U.S. bombing and to "investigate reports that it is not directed only at military targets."

Viet Invitation

The newspaper, a student publication on the Cornell University campus here, said the women were invited to tour the country by the Women's Union of North Vietnam.

Visas would be granted by North Vietnamese officials in Moscow, the copyrighted article said.

One of the women is a sister of a U.S. soldier who refused to fight in war-torn South Vietnam and another is the wife of a Cornell faculty member, the report said.

They are identified as Mrs. Grace Newman, sister of Pvt. Dennis Mora, 25, of New York City who was sentenced Sept. 8 to three years hard labor for refusing to board a transport for Vietnam, and Mrs. Joe Griffith, whose husband is an instructor in the Cornell chemistry department.

The others are Mrs. Diane Bevel, whose husband, James, is affiliated with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and Mrs. Barbara Deming, a member of the editorial board of Liberation Magazine, the newspaper said.

Vote Civilian Government by People in Viet

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnam's Constitutional Assembly by a one-sided vote today agreed the country should have a civilian government headed by a president elected by nationwide vote.

By a vote of 107 to 5 with five absentees, the assembly approved a set of proposals to be incorporated in the constitution which it is now writing and which is scheduled to be finished by the spring.

Under terms of the proposals, the president would be elected by a nationwide vote of all men and women over 18.

The president would appoint a prime minister who in turn would name his ministers. The appointments would not require approval of the national legislature, and the president would have the power to remove the prime minister.

Because of this, the plan envisages a "strong president" form of government with the president as a powerful chief of state and the prime minister as administrative head of the government.

The proposed form of government would be similar to that of South Korea.

Sponsors said it is aimed at preventing a future president from becoming a dictator and at the same time avoiding a parliamentary form of government which might change frequently and be powerless in times of crisis, such as war.

The assembly was elected in a nationwide vote Sept. 11 and was charged with writing a constitution to create a civilian government which will replace the present military regime headed by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. The military regime retained a veto power over the assembly's work, however.

National elections for a civilian government are supposed to be held late next year.

Note Overheated Pipe Causes Fire In Veteran Inn

An overheated smoke pipe connected to a combination range in the kitchen of a Veteran Tavern on Route 212 caused a fire that resulted in considerable damage to the two-story frame building Tuesday afternoon, according to Fire Chief Granville Myer of Centerville Fire Department.

Chief Myer said that Mr. and Mrs. Munnelly had left the building at about 1:15 p. m. to go shopping, and left a woman in charge of the establishment. The fire broke out near the stove pipe in the kitchen and burned up through the ceiling and walls to the second floor, according to the fire chief.

Fire damage resulted to walls and ceiling of a bedroom above the kitchen and Chief Myer reported extensive fire damage to the second floor rooms and smoke and water damage downstairs. The bar area was not damaged by the flames, officials said.

Centerville Fire units and Cedar Grove Fire Co. responded tothe alarm at 3:15 p. m., and C. A. Lynch Hose Co. of Saugerties covered up at Centerville firehouse until the units returned to their station.

Safest drivers of all are married women while single men have the unenviable distinction of having the highest auto accident frequency record, a newly released research project sponsored by the Automobile Manufacturers Association indicates. The intensive study, based upon California driving records for the year 1962, showed higher accident frequencies for all groups at early ages, with younger married men initially the highest but declining steeply over a five-year period. At 25, single men, the bachelors, take over the lead and hold it for 50 years.

Often Hunch Is Only Hope

By Oswald & James Jacoby

If you have no better way to play a hand than to rely on hunches, go ahead and follow your hunches. But you can improve your hunches a great deal by looking for a good play.

North's slam bang bidding to six clubs was in the nature of a gamble but the sort of gamble we recommended. It was possible for South to have two quick losers in spades or diamonds, but even then North was willing to gamble that the wrong suit would be opened and the slam could be made.

South won the heart lead in dummy and drew a couple of rounds of trumps. He saw that he would make his contract if he could find East with either the ace of diamonds or the king of spades.

He stopped awhile, communed with whatever power would give him a hunch and led a spade from dummy for the finesse. The finesse lost and there was no way left to make his contract.

If South hadn't been so busy trying to guess he might have seen that he didn't have to guess at all. After drawing the East-West trumps South should run off his remaining hearts and discard a diamond from dummy. Then he could enter dummy with a third trump and lead toward his king of diamonds. Since East held the ace South's king of diamonds would set up and he would have a parking place for one of dummy's spades.

Suppose that South's hunch had been right and that East held the spade king and West the diamond ace. South would still make the hand because he would only lose one diamond trick and would still be able to try the spade finesse.

Business Mirror Reflections

Note Growing Caution By Car Firm Leaders

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business News Analayst

NEW YORK AP) — The automotive industry is perhaps the most powerful industry in the world, but recent statements by its leaders — to say nothing of production cutbacks — reveal a growing caution beneath an overlay of optimism.

Not Total Master

This caution reveals a respect for ambiguous economic signals, one of the most important of which is the uncertain mind of the consumer.

Big as it is, the automotive industry knows it is not total master of its market.

Being so powerful a force in the economy of nations, the industry must assume a responsibility to look on the hopeful side of things. But this is getting harder to do.

A recent statement by General Motors, for example, told of great hopes and expectations for the coming year. Beneath this veneer, however, was uncertainty and an actual forecast of lower sales for the second straight year.

But how far should the industry go in courting the public?

In Germany, the Volkswagen people told their shareholders earlier this month that things were looking well. A little more than a week later it announced from Wolfsburg that all plants would close for 17 days.

Pressed for an explanation, company officials admitted they didn't wish to add to the already prevalent economic pessimism in West Germany.

Still Can't Dictate

Detroit's chief occupation is an extraordinary example of an industry that has not only met a need, but created a tremendous demand through quality products, salesmanship and marketing.

This has brought to General Motors, for example, a gross income comparable to the receipts of the entire United Kingdom or France, greater than West Germany, and nearly equal to the combined incomes of Japan and Canada.

Despite this, the automotive industry cannot dictate. The consumer refused to buy the Edsel, for example, and Ford lost hundreds of millions of dollars.

In the post-World War II years, American Motors pushed the compact car, found it was to the public's liking at the time, and forced the larger car manufacturers to produce smaller versions.

Public Tastes Change

But public tastes change. The tastes of American grew richer as their pocketbooks fattened, for compacts have grown larger with each year.

Recognition of consumer power was revealed by GM in its yearend estimates for the coming year.

Frederic Donner, its chairman stated: "To the traditional concept of the family car has been added the personal car which reflects in its styling, performance and optional equipment the exacting desires of the individual."

In response to the varied wishes of consumers, he said, GM now has 177 different models in its 1967 line compared with 81 in 1957.

CSEA Mapping Final Plans for State Picketing

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Leaders of the State Civil Service Employes Association mapped final plans today for statewide picketing Friday to protest a refusal to grant pay increases to state clerical workers.

Joseph F. Feily, president of the organization, said its members would picket state office buildings across the state.

The State Civil Service Department turned down Wednesday requests for salary boosts totling about $13 million for approximately 28,000 clerical and office workers.

Feily said the ruling would be appealed to the State Civil Service Commission.

J. Earl Kelly, the department's director of classification and compensation, said he found no evidence to support the CSEA's request to upgrade by two steps job titles in 180 categories.

Kelly said such reallocations are granted only when there was a material increase in duties or when salaries paid by private industry exceed those paid by the state.

As an example, Kelly said, a file clerk employed by the state, receives $4,367 a year. A person in a similar job in private industry earns $3,432 in the Albany area and $3,848 in New York City, he said.

Rotary Selects Two From County For Aussie Study

Two young Ulster County men have been selected to participate in an Australian Group Study Exchange Program it was announced today by Frank D. Hoornbeek, chairman of the county-wide committee and president of Kingston Rotary Club.

Representing the Woodstock Rotary Club will be Raymond Danowski, assistant executive director of the Mid-Hudson Heart Association and a resident of Woodstock. Representing the Kingston Rotary Club, William Davenport, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davenport and associated with Walter Davenport Sons, Inc. of High Falls. These two men were among the six selected from 60 applicants from the eight Mid-Hudson Counties comprising Rotary District 721.

The selections committee headed by William Nichol, also appointed Robert Diamond, resident of Stone Ridge and a Kingston Rotarian as alternate Group Leader.

Group Study Exchange, an educational activity of the Rotary Foundation, offers a unique person-to-person opportunity for the promotion of better understanding and friendly relations among the peoples of the world. The program provides travel grants for the exchange of teams of young business and professional men between different countries, enabling them to study the institutions and ways of life of their hosts and to develop personal acquaintances and exchange ideas.

The young men of District 721 will bring personal knowledge of their own country to the thousands they meet while abroad. And from their study of another country, their observations of its customs, their explorations into its business and professional life, their meetings and discussions with its people —will come many opportunities for the development of understanding and lasting friendships.

Reciprocity is a key to the Group Exchange program. The District 721 selected a team of six outstanding young men between the ages of '22 and 30 who represent a cross-section of businesses and professions in the district, and will send them to Queensland, Australia, for a two-month study tour, this spring. During the study tour the team will be accompanied by Vance Gage, a teacher at the Anderson School and a Hyde Park Rotarian.

Next year the Rotary Clubs of the Hudson Valley will be hosts to six Australian young men in an effort to further international understanding.

Kettering Foundation Grant Given to Bard

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON —A Kettering Foundation grant of $288,000 to help college faculty develop and try out new methods of teaching has been awarded to the Union for Research and Experimentation in Higher Education, of which Bard College is a member.

The Kettering grant will finance "Project Changeover," a three-year program enabling 60 selected college teachers to design and test new practices. Possible areas for innovation include new teaching patterns to foster independent study, reorganization of courses to cut across departmental boundaries and decrease proliferation, preparation of programs for inner-city youth and development of self-teaching units utilizing programmed materials.

The project will include three major stages: an initial four-week summer workshop to study current innovations and develop a plan for an experiment in teaching; a try-out period at the teacher's home institution during the regular academic year, and a follow-up four-week summer session to study results of the test-run and revise the project if necessary.

The first of the workshops will be held at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., in June. The 60 teachers for the program will be chosen on the basis of "demonstrated interest . . . in a significant project designed to improve the content and methods in his own works." Two-thirds of the participants will be from Union colleges.

In addition to Bard, members of the Union are Antioch, Goddard, Illinois Teachers College-North, Monteith, Nasson, Hofstra University, Sarah Lawrence, Shimer and Stephens.

'Equality State'

Wyoming's nickname of the "Equality State" derives from the fact that the state was a pioneer in woman suffrage though it was not admitted to the Union until 1890.

Polio Shots Required After January 1st By Education Dept.

The State Education Departmenth as notified all schools of new legislation requiring the immunization of school children against poliomyelitis. The law, which becomes effective January 1, 1967, states that "no principal, teacher, owner, or person in charge of a school shall permit any child to attend such school without the certificate . . . or some other acceptable evidence of the child's immunization against poliomyelitis."

Rondout Valley Central Schools are sending home through the schools, immediately after the winter holidays, letters and a survey card informing parents of this new state law, according to Robert A. Robertaccio, Assistant Superintendent of Schools for Pupil Personnel Services. After the survey cards are returned by parents to the child's school, parents will be given further guidelines in order to enable them to comply with the law.

Mr. Robertaccio pointed out also that there are two exceptions to the new law: children whose doctors certify that immunization would be detrimental to their health, and children belonging to religious groups whose teachings oppose the law's requirements.

Vassar College Maintains High Student Enrollment

A very high percentage of students who enter Vassar remain there four years and graduate—in fact eighty point six per cent!

"This is an astonishingly high retention rate in a woman's college. Vassar compares very favorably with other colleges; we're right at the top," said Mrs. Elizabeth Daniels, Dean of Studies at the Poughkeepsie, New York institution.

According to a recent report from the American Council of Education, approximately 25% of the students who enter a given college leave before graduation. They may get married or withdraw for some other personal reason, such as family financial reverses or ill health. Many transfer to another college or take a leave of absence. A few are "requested" to withdraw.

But rarely at Vassar, where, with a few exceptions, there has been a jump of one or two percentage points each year during the last ten, bringing the total percentage to its present high rate. Only 53 students out of an enrollment of 1641 withdrew during the academic year 1965-66 for any reason whatsoever.

Auxiliary Holiday Draws Large Crowd; Ellenville Hospital

More than 150 hospital staff members, and doctors joined the Ellenville Community Hospital Auxiliary Holiday Party on Monday, December 12. The festive occasion was designated to honor the personnel of the hospital. Mrs. Bernard Wenig, Hospitality Committee Chairman, and her committee assembled the array of refreshments. Mrs. Guy Davenport, newly elected hospital director, arranged the tea table. The afternoon event received rave notices from all who attended.

In the business meeting of the auxiliary, preceding the party, the membership adopted a proposal to devise a standard E.C.H. Auxiliary Pin to be awarded for 100 hours of cumulative service to the hospital either in the hospital itself or on an outside project. A 500 hour pin, and a 1000 hour pin will also be designed. The pins will incorporate the hospital-auxiliary emblem.

The group also voted to amend its by-laws to include a second vice president among its officers.

Membership chairman, Mrs. Irving Feinberg announced that there had been a good response to the current membership drive, and urged that those who had not already done so to mail their dues.

Vice-president Mrs. Alfred Feldshuh, presented a corsage to Mrs. Ben Cramer, president of the organization. Mrs. Cramer will become immediate-past president in January. The annual meeting will be held on January 9.

Rondout Valley Students Refinish Toys for Needy

About 25 boys at Rondout Valley High School have been spending a lot of after-school hours this fall on a project designed to bring smiles to the faces of some children less fortunate than most. The boys (from Grades 9 through 12) are the members of the Industrial Arts Club at the high school. Their project, which has become an annual tradition, is the complete refurbishing of used toys which are then distributed, at Christmastime, to youngsters at the Children's Home in Kingston.

An enterprise like this is especially appropriate at this time of the year because it goes to the heart of what Christmas giving is supposed to be: the gift of one's self. From start to finish, the toy project is the boys' own. They collect the toys. They sell refreshments at school basketball games and use the proceeds for materials to fix up the toys. They do the repair work, which involves many different jobs, with the interested assistance (when needed) of club sponsor Ronald Mapstone. After the toys are renovated, the boys deliver them in person to the children. This face-to-face presentation may be the most rewarding moment of all. Nothing is quite as satisfying as seeing someone else's happiness and knowing that your efforts have made it possible.

Industrial Arts at Rondout Valley is one of three divisions of the Practical Arts Department. The other two are Agriculture, taught by Walter Elmore, and Driver Education, taught by Charles Ayasse. Mr. Mapstone and Peter Zegel are the two Industrial Arts Teachers and Mr. Zegel is the Coordinator of Practical Arts. Both hold B.S. degrees in Industrial Arts from the State University College as Oswego. Mr. Zegel has his Permanent Certification and Mr. Mapstone is working on his.

Mr. Zegel believes that Industrial Arts should be a part of everyone's learning experience, so that he may understand and learn to control his industrial-technological environment. This is especially important in a world that is becoming more technologically-orientated daily. In Industrial Arts at Rondout, attention is given to the abstract as well as to the concrete. The principles and concepts of industry are taught as well as the use of tools, machines and materials. An awareness of industry and its place in our culture is fostered. The instructors teach not only technical skills but other facts about an industry: its size, working conditions, its job requirements, its relation to the community, its products, processes and purposes.

Discipline is stressed in classes, Mr. Zegel pointed out. He feels that this is the primary reason there have been so few accidents in the shops. Seventh and eighth grade boys take required courses in Industrial Arts. The seventh graders take an introductory course. A project in metalwork is planned, designed and carried out cooperatively. Woodworking is done in the 8th grade classes. Beyond these basic courses, boys in Grades 9 through 12 may elect one or more of the following: printing, textiles, metalworking, woodworking, automotive shop, machine shop, welding. A sequence of three years constitutes a major.

The boys in the Industrial Arts Club meet every Thursday after school. Following completion of the Christmas toy project, individual projects of their own choice are worked on. Creativity and the experience and practice of planning, designing and executing are emphasized in club projects just as they are in the regular Industrial Arts classes. There is a special and very real feeling of achievement in holding a finished object that is the result of one's own thought, ingenuity and craft. This satisfaction is one that Industrial Arts students at Rondout Valley experience regularly.

POSTER DISPLAY AT UCCC—Cheryl Badley of Kingston and George DeWitt of Oak Hill view the outstanding group of contemporary posters by artists which are now on exhibit in Gallery Hall at Ulster County Community College, 214 West Chestnut Street, Kingston. Prof. Ruth Muroff, A.I.D., Coordinator of the Arts at the college, said the public is invited to view the exhibit running from November 28 to December 20. The posters on display are varied and designed by contemporary artists and sculptors. A number of the posters are from the List Art Posters collection, an experimental program set up by the List Foundation for the renewal of [illegible] as an art form. In 1964, the Albert A. List Foundation appointed the American Federation of the Arts to administer a program to commission artists to design and executive original posters for cultural events. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr)

The Right Thing To Do

By Elizabeth L. Post

TWIN MAIDS OF HONOR

Dear Mrs. Post: I am an orphan and have been brought up by a wonderful family who have twin daughters just my age. They are as close as sisters to me, and now I am to be married and am terribly concerned about choosing my maid [illegible] cannot have one twin without hurting the other [illegible] is married. I simply don't want to choose a friend who means much less to me, so Mrs. Post, could I possibly have two maids of honor? Worried Sick.

Dear Worried: Although it is most unusual, I recommend that you do ask both twins to be maids of honor. Every rule has its exception, and rather than ruin your wedding and your close relationship with the twins, this is the moment to make such an exception.

Teenager Wants to Circulate at Parties

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a 15-year-old girl and I find myself in a very embarrassing position every time I go to a dance. As soon as I enter the door a certain boy makes a bee line towards me and asks me to dance. When the dance is over, he escorts me back to my seat and sits down beside me. Then I am stuck with him for the rest of the night. What I want to know is whether I can excuse myself and join my girl friends or whether I have to sit there until he or someone else asks me to dance. Diane.

Dear Diane: Sad but true, girls have a much harder time when it comes to choosing partners or circulating at a dance. But don't let this fellow monopolize you and ruin your fun. Rather than insult him by saying you'd prefer to join the girls, tell him (after one dance) that you want to powder your nose or comb your hair and then, when you come out of the powder room, casually join the nearest group of friends.

Formal or Semi-Formal Party?

Dear Mrs. Post: Our school has always had a semi-formal party every year during our vacation. But this year we changed from a semi-formal to a dinner dance. Here is my problem: Is it proper to wear a long gown to this dinner dance? Also, what if it ends up being a semi-formal dinner dance? Loretta.

Dear Loretta: Because I think it is fun to get dressed up once in a while, I would hope that all the girls would choose to do so. A dinner dance, at least in adult terms, almost always does mean formal clothes. But since your school used to have the semi-formal party, many girls may think that that is still the way to dress. So that you won't stick out like a sore thumb, find out what the others intend to do, but try to persuade them that his is the occasion to get out your best, most flattering, most feminine clothes.

Stresses Sales, Income Tax

of the parties is liable for any sales tax due.

One of the first things to determine, it seems to me, is whether or not a capital improvement is involved. In general, this determination should be based on the applicable principles of the Internal Revenue Code.

In an installation can qualify as a capital improvement, no sales tax is charged on the service portion of the charge. If the installation is not a capital improvement, but is clearly a repair to real property, the contractor should charge sales tax to the customer on the entire job—both materials and labor.

On the other hand, if it is determined that the installation does constitute a capital improvement, the type of contract determines who pays the tax.

If it is a lump sum contract, the tax effect is the same, whether the customer is a private individual, an exempt organization, or any other type of customer. In this instance, the contractor is considered the consumer of the tangible personal property and he must pay to tax to his supplier. The service of installing the property which becomes a capital improvement is not taxable.

Therefore, the contractor should not add any sales tax to the bill he submits to his customer when performing lump sum capital improvement contracts.

The sales tax situation is different if the contract is a time and materials or labor and materials contract. In this type of contract, the contractor agrees to furnish the materials for a price, and to perform the service of installing or erecting to comprise a capital improvement for a separate price.

If a contractor is selling tangible personal property to his customer under a time and materials contract, he may purchase the materials tax-free from his supplier if he uses a Resale Certificate. In that case, he must collect the sales tax from his customer on the charge for materials. The charge for labor is exempt from the sales tax.

Another Tax Situation

The contractor doing work for government agencies may encounter still another sales tax situation. According to the statutes governing the award of contracts by New York State and municipal corporations, including school districts, a lump sum contract must be executed under which there is no resale of tangible personal property by the contractor to the governmental agency. As a result, the contractor must pay the sales tax on material bought for use in performing these construction contracts.

Some governmental agencies may be empowered by law to enter into time and materials contracts. The State Dormitory Authority and the State University Construction Fund are examples. The contractor performing construction work for agencies of this sort is not required to pay or collect a sales tax on materials sold to the State under such a contract.

In construction contracts involving exempt organizations, it may be to the advantage of both parties to consider a time and materials arrangement, rather than a lump sum contract. Under a time and materials contract, sales tax liability may be avoided when the contractor buys all its materials for resale to the exempt organization.

This construction contract coin has another side, the vendor who supplies materials to the contractor has certain responsibilities.

Materials may be sold tax-free to contractors only when proper resale or exemption certificates are provided by the contractor and accepted by the supplier in good faith. If a supplier has accepted a resale or exemption certificate for materials under other circumstances, he may be liable for the tax. The test here is the existence of good faith.

Farming in Ulster

In Ulster County nearly 1,000 farms produced about $17.5 million in farm products last year. For Ulster County and the counties adjoining Ulster, farming is big business.

We have been trying to clear up a few points with commercial fruit and vegetable growers which continue to be troublesome from the sales tax point of view.

About a month ago we met in Middletown with growers from Ulster, Orange and Sullivan Counties to talk about the taxability of containers used for various kinds of farm produce. The problem has been the determination of where production stops and distribution and marketing begin.

Without going into detail, let me cite how complicated it can become to make a determination about where the tax liability lies in so simple a thing as a container for apples. Let's assume the container manufacturer sells cardboard baskets to a grower. The grower sells some of his apples to consumers from a roadside stand. He sells some through a produce broker who in turn sells to grocery stores.

It is fairly clear that except for packages that go to the customer with the apples, the container maker should collect the sales tax from the grower who sells at retail from a roadside stand. As a general rule, the state tax and any local sales tax should be collected on the sale of crates and cartons which will be discarded by the wholesaler or retailer before the produce gos on sale. There is no tax on packaging which accompanies the produce to its final customer—such as the basket holding the apples bought from the roadside stand.

If the container is of the returnable or reusable variety — such as egg crates used over and over again in marketing — the tax is to be paid on their purchase.

Gray areas still remain in some of the more specialized uses of containers. We are working with growers and other types of industry to try, with their help, to establish fair and acceptable bases, for determining taxability.

I would like to report that the State sales tax is producing the revenue expected of it. It is going a long way toward making possible the increase in State aid to localities which in turn is helping hold down local real property taxes.

The costs of education at all State levels is about $1.8 billion in this fiscal year. Total direct State aid to localities is $2.3 billion. That is an amount equal to the revenue we collect from the State personal income tax, the State sales tax, and the taxes on business.

The State aid to Ulster County in fiscal 1966-67 amounts to $17.5 million. Nearly $13 million of that amount was for aid to education. If it were not for State aid to localities, the man who is now paying $200 on his home or business property right here in the City of Kingston would instead be paying $430 on the same piece of property. In several school districts in the county, using that same $200 base figure, would be well over $500 without the cushioning effect of State aid.

I think those figures give you some idea of the importance of State assistance to local governments whose operating costs have risen tremendously in recent years. And, as I am sure you know, the revenue from the State sales tax has been a very important factor in making this additional State Aid possible.

State Tax Changes

Substantive changes in the state tax returns are minor, he said, and the taxpayer and his representative will find things where they are accustomed to looking for them, both in the instructions and in the forms themselves.

But we have redesigned the state "long form" returns, both resident and non-resident, to give them a new look — a typographic face-lifting. The Internal Revenue Service set the pace last year and we have tried to provide state forms this year to conform with what it has done and, at the same time, forms which will be easier to read, which will have greater legibility, and which will follow modern concepts of good typographic layout.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took a loss early this afternoon amid drab economic reports. Trading was moderate.

Loses of fractions to a point or so among a number of the pivotal stocks dragged down the averages.

Most leading autos, steels, airlines, oils, rails and nonferrous metal lost ground.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 440 at $13.58.

General Motors, bought eagerly only a few days ago, slipped more than a point. Ford and Chrysler widened early fractional gains to about a point each.

Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin were down about 1 each. U.S. Steel eased.

Du Pont slid 1½ but Eastman Kodak held a gain of about a point. Fractional changes were the rule for the most leading chemicals.

A rise of about a point by United Aircraft was a standout in a fractionally higher aerospace group.

Prices advanced in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

More Income Required To Meet Living Costs

Q) "I am a 70-year-old widow, dependent on income from stocks and Social Security. I own Woolworth, which shows a big loss for me, and National-Standard, on which I have a profit. What should I do with these stocks? I need more income with the cost of living soaring as it is. I would appreciate your advice." R.C.

A) I am very much pleased to help anyone in your position. You hold two stocks which are relatively secure, but considerably depressed in price at present levels.

National-Standard is a quality producer of wire and other steel items, and the share currently yield 4.7 per cent. Woolworth's British subsidiary has been hurt by higher taxes, and this has been reflected in the price of the shares, now yielding five per cent.

Both stocks under present circumstances appear to be poorly situated for price appreciation, and I believe you can improve your income without materially affecting your security or your gains potential. I suggest that you switch these issues into May-tag, selling on a 6.3 per cent basis, and Southern Rwy., yielding 6.4 per cent at current market.

Q) "I would like your opinion on Ipco Hospital Supply. The stock seems to have dropped rapidly." S.D.

A) Ipco's price decline is attributed to a sudden slowdown in growth. After a long period of steady expansion, earnings for the fiscal year ended June 30 were very little changed from year-earlier results. A sharp drop in the June quarter was mainly responsible for the relatively unfavorable comparison. Margins are said to have narrowed because of expansion costs and an operating loss in one division. Earnings were off slightly in the September quarter, but I believe the slowdown is temporary and that the strong earnings uptrend will be resumed. I advise you to retain the stock which is in an industry with built-in growth prospects.

"But under no circumstances, ladies and gentlemen, shall you permit this man to walk out of this courtroom a free man."

Coppolino said his only connection with Farber's 1963 death was that he had tried to prevent it by treating his Middletown Township, N.J., neighbor for an apparent heart attack.

Florida Files Detainer

If Coppolino is acquitted, he will still stay behind bars. Florida authorities have filed a detainer against him so he can be taken back to stand trial on a charge of murdering his first wife, Carmela, in 1965.

Farber died of what was called a heart attack. Afterward, Coppolino and his wife moved to Sarasota, Fla. Not long after, Mrs. Farber moved next door. Four days later Mrs. Coppolino died suddenly of what was also called a heart attack.

Coppolino married an attractive, wealthy divorcee of 39 within six weeks of Carmela's death. Mrs. Farber went to the police and investigation, exhumations and murder indictments against Coppolino followed.

Orbit Beetles In Space Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — A space capsule containing fruit flies, beetles, wasps and other living creatures and plants whirled about the earth today in an experiment designed to help determine how humans will fare on long-distance trips in outer space.

The beehive-shaped spacecraft, named Biosatellite 1, was launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, Fla. The Goddard Space Center near Washington later reported "all going very well."

After 47 orbits, the 944-pound spaceship is scheduled to fire a retrorocket Saturday and parachute toward earth. Aircraft hoped to catch the falling capsule over the Pacific and fly the specimens to Hawaii for examination.

The experiment is the initial mission in the $100-million biosatellite program conceived to test how weightlessness and space radiation effect the growth of plants and animals.

Cops Seek Clues To Collegian's Death in Carolina

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Kenneth Wayne Glasgow, a North Carolina State University student, was found tied and gagged but alive early today in his dormitory room on the Raleigh campus.

Police said they did not know if the incident was connected with Tuesday's death of Raymond P. McCauley, another student. Authorities have speculated that McCauley's death was a suicide.

Glasgow, 18, was quoted by police as saying that he was grabbed from the rear by a person "of great strength" and tied up shortly before midnight. The youth said all he remembers is hitting the floor.

Sport Club Appeals Decision Awarding Forfeit to Yonkers

Locals Charged With Being Late

Kingston Sport Club will appeal a German-American Soccer Association protest board decision awarding the Yonkers club a forfeit victory over the Kickers, Manager Bob Graves said today.

The ruling erased a 3-1 victory scored by Kingston in a game at Yonkers and dropped the locals from third place to sixth place in the League Division standings.

Yonkers, meanwhile, picks up another win and two points to share the first place lead with Bridgeport. This development is particularly galling to the Kickers.

Yonkers filed the protest following Kingston's unexpected victory on the grounds that the locals were 10 minutes late for their scheduled 2:30 p. m. appearance.

Graves, who represented Kingston at the protest meeting in New York, admitted the locals were "about five minutes late" but insisted there were extenuating circumstances and labelled the Yonkers protest as sour grapes.

Several Avenues

Graves said the Kingston appeal, now before the executive board of the German-American Association, could be carried to two higher authorities — the New York state and national soccer organizations.

"I don't know whether Sport Club officials will go that far," he said, "but I'm in favor of going all the way, if the Yonkers protest is upheld by the league."

Graves listed a series of complaints against the Yonkers setup.

"In the first place," he said, "the field is about a mile and a half from the clubhouse, which is located in the center of Yonkers. It is a huge hall, with the dressing room located in the basement."

Graves went on to say the locals had to scurry around the huge building trying to find someone with the keys to the dressing room. Matters were further complicated when the team arrived at the field and the Yonkers club insisted on checking player passes.

"This consumed at least five minutes," said Graves. "We never check player passes in Kingston. Besides, the referee was an Italian who spoke no English and needed an interpreter."

Has Confidence

Graves said he though there were enough mitigating circumstances to sustain Kingston's appeal to the League Division's executive board. If the appeal is rejected, then Sport Club officials will have to make a decision on future action.

Meanwhile, the Kingston record has been revised to show 6 wins, 2 ties and 4 defeats for 14 points, good for sixth place. Yonkers is now tied with Bridgeport for first place with 18 points. White Plains (17) is third, with Spring Valley (16) fourth and Bavarian of New York fifth with 15 points.

A tough road assignment at Spring Valley Sunday is not calculated to improve Kingston's standing. Spring Valley is traditionally tough at home and Manager Graves has serious doubts the locals can muster their full strength for the game.

League Division

	W	Tie	L	Pts
Bridgeport	9	0	3	18
Yonkers	8	2	3	18
White Plains	7	3	2	17

Ranger Gilbert Top NHL Scorer

Gilbert scored twice Wednesday night and took the National Hockey League goal-scoring lead with 15 for the season as the first-place New York Rangers ripped sagging Detroit 4-1.

The goals gave Gilbert seven in the last four games — the hottest pace in the NHL. And he's been doing it on one good leg.

New York maintained its slim one-point edge over Chicago and Toronto, both tied for second. The Black Hawks trimmed Montreal 2-1 and the Maple Leafs took Boston by the same score.

Ferraro Runs 114 In Billiard Play

Trenton Jr. College In UCCC Cage Tourney

Trenton Junior College, a strong basketball power from New Jersey, has been selected to play in the December basketball tournament being sponsored by Ulster County Community College.

The tourney will be conducted the nights of Dec. 22 and 23 at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium.

The selection of the Trenton Vikings completes the slate for the tournament. The other participants will be Staten Island Community College, Fulton-Montgomery Community College and Ulster County Community College, the host team.

"We have excellent representation for the tournament from the East," said Ulster coach Mike Perry. "We have teams from New Jersey, metropolitan New York and upstate New York. It should make for an interesting tourney."

The Trenton Vikings, coached by Howard V. Landa, is a team with lots of height. It has Wayne Sokolowski, 6-7; Tom Pogranicy, 6-6½; Jim Naples, 6-6; Louis Merlano, 6-5; Robert Teti, 6-4; Tom Krenchicki, 6-3; and Wayne Morris, 6-3.

Cage Power

"Over the years, Trenton has earned a reputation of being a very well coached team," said Coach Perry, "and has been a perennial basketball power in New Jersey. We expect the Vikings will make a very fine showing in our tournament."

The Trenton Vikings play teams such as the Fordham Freshmen, Fordham Junior Varsity, Baltimore Junior College, Princeton Junior Varsity, Seton Hall Freshmen, St. John's University Freshmen and New York City Community College.

There will be doubleheaders on the nights of Dec. 22 and 23, and a most valuable player will be selected from among all the basketball players competing both nights. The five top players competing will be named to an all-star group.

This is the first invitational tournament and it is expected to become an annual event.

The committee in charge of arrangements includes Kingston City Judge Hubert A. Richter, Alderman-at-Large Frank Koenig, Andrew Murphy, Kingston Recreation Department supervisor; Edward Palladino, sports writer for the Kingston Freeman; Bill Barnes, Kingston insurance agent; Donald Williams, an IBM employe and real estate broker; and Dick McCarthy, local restaurant operator and area radio personality.

Closing Dates For Waterfowl Listed by State

Closing dates for the 1966 New York State waterfowl season have been announced by the Conservation Department.

First of the remaining seasons, the Lake Champlain goose and brant season, ends Friday. The upstate (except for the Lake Champlain area) goose and brant season closes Dec. 23. The next day the upstate (again excluding Lake Champlain) special scaup and ringneck season opens. This season runs Dec. 24-Jan. 7.

Other closings:

Long Island and that portion of Westchester County south and east of the Hutchinson River Parkway, duck and coot, Dec. 23. Geese and brant in this area may be taken through Jan. 7. Special scaup and ringneck season runs Dec. 24-Jan 7.

Special scoter, eider and old-squaw season on Long Island now open until Jan. 10.

After Jan. 10 a nimrod can put his fowling piece back in the rack, thaw out, and start telling his friends about all the unusual events of the season.

Olivets Capture Bridge Tourney

Mrs. John Olivet and Miss Rosemary Olivet posted a 56 percent game to take first place in the Glenerie Bridge Club's fractional point game.

Tied for second with 54 percent were the teams of Mrs. Harold Rakov, Mrs. I. H. Wheatcroft, Kingston; and Dr. John Olivet, Dr. Murray Fletcher, Kingston. Miss Dorothy Maroon and Joseph Mautner, Kingston, placed fourth with 48 percent.

The monthly Master Point game is scheduled Friday at 7:30 at the Elks Club.

New Orleans Franchise To Houston Millionaire

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — There were unconfirmed reports that Pete Rozelle, the pro football czar, would announce today that Houston millionaire John W. Mecom Jr., had been awarded the New Orleans franchise in the National Football League.

Sports Editor Bob Roesler wrote in today's editions of The Times-Picayune that Mecom had the franchise.

In New York, the NFL office would only say the "decision will be announced as soon as reached."

It was learned that Rozelle was scheduled to poll 14 NFL club owners again today on the New Orleans ownership. Atlanta, given a franchise last year, does not have a vote on the New Orleans ownership.

Guarantee $3500 For KBA Tourney

Kingston Bowling Association's board of directors has announced a guaranteed prize list of $3500 for the 30th annual tournament next February.

If 175 or more teams compete, the prize list would be greater and could reach $5,000, if the entry hits 200. The KHA announcement made no mention of a guaranteed first place prize.

The KBA awarded more than $4,000 for its 1964 tournament. The 1965 total was $3600.

Another policy statement said that all teams with 900 averages or more would be placed into the net prize division. The move is designed to attract more high average teams into the tournament.

Slick Yankee Takes Roosevelt Feature

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Slick Yankee edged Scotch Duke by a half-length and won the $4,000 pace at Roosevelt Raceway Wednesday night.

The 3-year-old gelding covered the rain-drenched mile in 2:10 under the guiding hand of Del Insko. Insko is the leading driver at Roosevelt, the only harness track still operating in New York State.

Slick Yankee returned $7.20. Delightful Time was third.

SIDELINE VIEWS

By ED PALLADINO

Is it possible to be a resident of the United States for only eight years, to attain All-America status as a soccer player, make the U.S. Olympic and Pan-American soccer team, graduate from college with a straight A average and have a chance for a Rhodes and Woodrow Wilson scholarship?

The answer is 'yes" and the lad in question is Eugene Ventriglia, the New Paltz State soccer ace.

• Native of Italy

Ventriglia came to the United States from Italy in 1958. He attended Poughkeepsie High School and was on the track team. He played soccer for the Italian Center and for the German Blue and White, both members of the Central New York Soccer League.

In 1962, he joined forces with the Kingston Sport Club, playing with the local team until starting his great career at New Paltz in 1963.

In talking about soccer at New Paltz State, Ventriglia always comes into the conversation. When you look at his record, you will know why.

• An Idelible Mark

Gene surprised Danbury State in his collegiate debut. He scored five goals, the first of 78 he tallied at New Paltz. Add in 40 assists and you can see what kind of marks he established.

Ventriglia is a two-time All-American at his center forward position and is a strong contender for this year's team, which will be announced later this month.

In the NCAA Atlantic Coast Soccer championships last year, New Paltz was the winner and Ventriglia was the Most Valuable Player. The Hawks compiled a 12-1 record.

During Ventriglia's four-year career at New Paltz, the Hawks compiled a 33-11-1 mark, the best in the state. Al Miller, a soccer star at East Stroudsburg and now coach at New Paltz, lauds his Italian star as one of the "best players I have seen or coached."

• An Honor Student

Ventriglia hasn't let his soccer ability impair his scholastic status. He is a language major and has attained a straight A average in that field.

When he graduates from New Paltz next month, Eugene will teach at Newburgh Free Academy. In the meantime, this scholastic whiz will be hopeful of obtaining those scholarships to pursue his studies.

• Survived the Tryouts

When tryouts for berths on the U.S. Olympic team began several weeks ago, Ventriglia was a candidate. He survived the initial cut and then had to compete in the Eastern regionals at Randalls Island, New York. There were seventy collegiate players and Ventriglia and one other were chosen to compete in St. Louis against the best players in the country.

The finalists were put through two days of rugged competition at Washington University in St. Louis. Ventriglia scored three goals and added an assist during the tryouts and his flawless play didn't go unnoticed by the experts in charge of making the final selections.

When the firing was over, Eugene was one of 25 named to the team. He will represent his adopted country in next year's Pan-American games and the 1968 Olympic games.

When you can combine athletics and scholastic ability the way Ventriglia has, how can we be critical of today's youth? He has brought great honor and fame, not only to himself and to his family, but to his college, its athletic teams and its students.

Trade Siebern For Gabrielson

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The interleague baseball trade deadline in the major leagues is at midnight tonight and the deals that sent Roger Maris to St. Louis from the New York Yankees and Maury Wills to Pittsburgh from the Los Angeles Dodgers look to be the biggest that will be made unless there is a last-day flurry of activity.

Wednesday, California traded veteran first baseman Norm Siebern to San Francisco for outfielder Len Gabrielson. And St. Louis sent Walter Williams, who led the Pacific Coast League in batting last season, to the Chicago White Sox along with relief pitcher Don Dennis. In return, the Cards got catcher John Romano and minor league pitcher Lee White.

The Angels got youth for age in giving up the 33-year-old Siebern for Gabrielson, 26. But Siebern hit .247 last season and drove in 41 runs while Gabrielson hit just .216 and had 16 RBI.

Romano, the key player in the St. Louis deal, hit .231 for the White Sox in 1966 and had 15 homers.

The two deals brought to 14 the total made in the last three weeks.

Royals Close in On Our Knicks

Don't look now but the Cincinnati Royals are closing in on third place in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association.

The Royals picked up two games in two nights on third-place New York to move to within one-half game of the Knicks.

Cincinnati edged the Lakers 126-124 in Los Angeles Wednesday night while the Knicks were bowing to the Bullets 116-106 in Baltimore.

In the only other game played, the Chicago Bulls turned back the Detroit Pistons 93-87 in Evansville, Ind.

Tuesday night Cincinnati snapped a seven-game losing streak by beating San Francisco and New York absorbed a setback at the hands of Philadelphia.

The Royals own their modest two-game winning streak today as a result of Connie Dierking's basket with three seconds to play that broke a 124-124 tie with Los Angeles.

Uniroyal WINTERIDE SNOW TIRE

ASK ABOUT OUR "SPIKES"

Let's face it. You should think about snow tires before it snows. Don't chance getting stuck. Have your snow tires mounted early. In fact, if you wait too long before coming to see us, you may not be able to get the size and style you want. Some of our better snow tires, such as Uniroyal's Winterides, are at a premium even now before the season really begins.

No wonder! A snow tire spends most of its life on snowless roads. And the Winteride is a snow tire tested to do 100 mph . . . when there is no snow. That's one of the reasons it's called The Dry Road Snow Tire and is in such great demand. Winteride's big, big tractor-type treads dig you out of deep snow quick, but also give you a smooth, quiet ride on dry roads where you travel most of the time.

LBJ to Use . . .

Wednesday by Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., who recently returned from an inspection trip to South Vietnam. He said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U. S. commander in Vietnam, and South Vietnamese officials also oppose lengthening the holiday cease-fires.

Has Most To Gain

"The enemy has the most to gain from any short or long truce," Young said in an interview. He said, "the toughest fighting yet" of the war in Vietnam will start soon in the rich Mekong Delta area.

Wednesday night's White House statement was prompted by a proposal by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield that the presently planned brief holiday truces be extended to a single cease-fire lasting just short of two months.

The Communist and the United States and it allies already have set one 48-hour truce for the period of Dec. 24-26 and another 48-hour truce for Dec. 31-Jan. 2. The allies also have proposed, but the Communists have not yet accepted, a 96-hour suspension of combat for the Vietnamese new year, Feb. 8-12.

Straddle Hanoi

of Hanoi. The pilot was rescued.

Two Navy jets were brought down by groundfire, the U.S. Command reported, and both pilots were listed as missing.

With the losses, the total of American planes reported lost in the air war against the Communist North reached 446. The Thunderchief was the seventh U.S. plane reported downed by a MIG, while U.S. fliers have reported shooting down at least 26 of the Communist jet and possibly two more.

Ground Action Spurts

As the tempo of the air war increased, there was a spurt also in ground fighting in South Vietnam.

Vietnamese military headquarters reported four widely separated Viet Cong attacks in which defending government units were badly mauled. A headquarters spokesman acknowledged moderate to heavy casualties to the South Vietnamese forces in the four engagements.

U.S. B52 bombers struck twice today, both times unloading their bombs inside the Demilitarized Zone separating North and South Vietnam. The targets were infiltration routes used by the reorganized North Vietnamese 324B Division and bivouac and supply areas.

More Yanks Arrive

In other developments:

— U.S. headquarters reported the strength of American forces in Vietnam rose to 368,000 men last week, an increase of 6,000 over the previous week. Most of the increase reulted from the arrival of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade.

— American and Vietnamese combat casualties increased last week over the preceding week while enemy losses dropped sharply. U.S. headquarters said 83 Americans were killed and 559 were wounded compared with 44 killed and 521 wounded the previous week. Vietnamese losses were 216 killed compared with 139 the preceding week, a Vietnamese spokesman said. The U.S. Command reported 589 of the enemy killed and 235 captured; the week before the report was 1,181 killed and 162 captured.

Rules Out Cong Hopes

— South Vietnam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said, "The Viet Cong no longer have the slightest hope of defeating us in the military field." But he added in a Saigon speech, "As long as the enemy is able to maintain its machinery of terror, it will be able to nourish and carry on the war."

The North Vietnamese government claimed that more than 100 people have been killed or wounded in bombings by U.S. planes of Hanoi and its suburbs in the past 10 days and that many houses were destroyed.

Answering questions about the raids around Hanoi, State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey told newsmen in Washington Wednesday that "so far as I am aware, we have no photo reconnaissance yet" that would indicate any workers' housing was hit in the attacks.

No Change of Policy

"It is not American policy to bomb other than the targets which we have talked about here in the past and at (the) Defense (Department) and at the White House and in Saigon; and they are military or military associated targets," McCloskey said when asked if there had been any change in U.S. policy.

Washington has ordered the North Vietnamese capital immune from American raids through the 22 months of air warfare.

Artificial Trees

have to cost more because it costs us more to pay men to cut 'em and haul 'em for us to sell. Most we make on a tree is about 50 cents."

But the Christmas tree, despite rising costs, is still a big business. Irwin Rudolph, a salesman at another lot alongside his plumbing firm, noted that 150 trees had been sold from the lot since last Saturday. (It's suspected that a mailbox, bearing Rudolph's name and situated just in front of the trees, may have had a part in at least some of these sales.)

"Sure our trees are expensive," Rudolph agreed. "But they're sheared trees. People at the nursery trim them just so's they'll be fuller and won't have any gaps. Costs more to fix them that way so they're bound to cost more."

Buying Earlier

The only real difference Rudolph noted in the market this year was that people seem to be buying earlier. "But you can't judge by that. I helped them sell trees here for some time and it seems that one year people all buy early and the next they wait until the last four or five days. You just can't tell about people."

Peary agreed. "People are funny. Talk about being choosy, why it's like a woman buying a new dress. It's a toss-up as to who buys most of the trees, seems like a husband or a wife will look at a tree, then run home to get the other one before they finally decide.

"Nine times out of ten though, they got out with the first one they looked at."

"I guess Scotch Pines and white spruce go biggest around here. Everybody wants 'em about six, maybe seven feet high."

The trucker-turned salesman motioned us to follow as he walked toward a distant corner of the one-time used car lot. He pointed to a group of blue-tinted evergreens huddled in a corner.

Prize Trees

"We got a bunch here though that's really something.

"Trucked them all in myself from Eureka, Montana and they're the prettiest tree ever. I forget their name but they can't be beat for holding their needles . . . And they're really good smelling when you get 'em warmed up.

Peary excused himself to wait on two customers weighing the merits of a scotch pine vs. a white pine. We decided to leave too, firmly convinced that even if the days of a woodland trek with father and the two-bladed axe are gone, the old-fashioned tree is here to stay—falling needles, seeping sap and all.

Meanwhile, an Associated Press report out of Albany more or less bears out the area feeling.

Artificial trees are expected to retain approximately 8 per cent of the market, as they have in past years, the AP story disclosed.

And, the wire service story added that Christmas trees will needle your pocketbook by being more expensive for Santa's visit on Christmas Eve.

A spokesman for the State Agriculture Department said a "six to eight-foot Douglas Fir, costing $4 at the tree farm, may triple in price by the time it is finally sold at retail."

Giants appear in the mythology of every country.

Bell Takes Plea

structions were available for those who wished to use stickers; the fact that the three-minute mie limit placed on voting made it physically impossible for a voter to do what he had to do in order to split his vote for delegates-at-large; and the problem of finding the proper slot.

Same Conditions Elsewhere

Bell, who urged the Secretary of State to use all personnel and resources at his disposal to conduct a statewide investigation to ascertain whether similar conditions prevailed throughout the State, said he has information that convinces him that such conditions definitely held true in Greene, Erie, Broome and other counties, as well as Ulster and Dutchess.

It is Bell's contention that the election of Delegates-at-Large should be declared null and void; a new special election statewide for such delegates should be conducted before the Convention convenes April 4, 1967; and recommendations should be drafted for the Legislature to avoid future repititions of similar methods of balloting, which seemingly cheated thousands of their vote.

In dispatching his letter to Republican Chairman Spad, Republican delegate Bell stressed the fact that he believes the economic, social and political structure of the upstate community is in the balance because the results of the Constitutional Convention will control what happens here in years to come. Said Bell in his letter to Spad: "The social, economic, governmental and political structure of the upstate community will be governed by what the Convention does for at least a generation . . . I urge you to use every resource at your disposal to see that a state-wide investigation is conducted into reported irregularities in Dutchess and Ulster Counties and to ascertain if such inequities existed throughout the rest of the state."

Bell said further that his letter to Spad made note of the facts incorporated in the previous letter to Lomenzo, advising the Secretary of State of seemingly unfair practices here and suggesting steps which could be taken to remedy the situation before final results of the contest have been decided by between 60,000 and 80,000 votes —when blank votes in Ulster alone far exceeded this total.

Vote Bolsters Hand in Deals With W. Europe

MADRID (AP) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco emerged today from Spain's second national referendum in 30 years with smashing support for his government reorganization plans and new strength from which to negotiate Spain's future relations with the rest of Western Europe.

More than 17 million Spaniards—85 per cent of those eligible to vote — apparently said "si" in the nationwide vote Wednesday on Franco's program which may lead to a democratic monarchy for Spain.

Even Franco's staunchest supporters were amazed at the result. Although the government utilized press and propaganda facilities to the fullest to muster support and relentlessly muzzled opposition forces calling for a voters' boycott, the most optimistic prevoting prediction was a favorable response from 80 per cent of those voting. Instead 96 per cent of those voting voted yes.

the Welfare budget and $130,000 to operate the Community College for the final four months of 1967. The college year runs from August to August but it is necessary to provide in the tax levy monies to operate the college to the end of the county's fiscal year, Dec. 31. These two items alone raise by nearly $500,000 the required money to be raised by local tax, unless some additional revenue is discovered in addition to that in the rough draft.

The board will meet Monday following the public hearing to adopt the 1967 budget.
